ARMY PLANE HOPS OFF FOR HONOLULU

THIRD PARTY THREAT MADE BY DRY LEAGUE

Anti-Saloon People Say They Will Split Party if Smith Is Chosen

SOUTH IS BATTLEGROUND
Many Drys Hope McAdoo Will Lend His Name to Separate Movement

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright 1927 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington — The Anti-Saloon league has come out openly with a threat of a third party ticket for the south, if Governor Smith is nominated on the Democratic national ticket.

While this is in line with the known attitude of the leaders of dry organizations, the experienced politicians regard the strategy as more of a threat than a likelihood. For unless the dries are willing to expend large sums to contest local delegations and thus go into the national convention with real strength, there is little chance of getting much accomplished. Political organization takes time as well as money and the difficulty the anti-saloon league will have will be to arouse the regular politicians in the south to the need of a third party ticket. Also some outstanding dries are needed to make the race or else a third party ticket will be negligible when the national electoral vote is counted.

The hope that William G. McAdoo would lend his name to the third party movement is held by many of the dries, who point to recent speech in Georgia as the platform on which the south might be roused to action. Mr. McAdoo is reported to be active in trying to prevent the nomination of a wet but what he would do if the democratic party, after considering all the facts and circumstances and prejudices finally nominated a wet by a two-thirds vote is another question.

UNION STAND DOUBTFUL
The talk of a third party ticket has on previous occasions been an influence in determining the choice of a nominee. As a matter of fact, there is an expectation that the road to Georgia and the platform on which McAdoo is reported to be active in trying to prevent the nomination of a wet but what he would do if the democratic party, after considering all the facts and circumstances and prejudices finally nominated a wet by a two-thirds vote is another question.

BRITAIN ASKS TWO CLASSES OF CRUISERS

Suggests 10,000 Ton Ships
Carry 8-inch, 7,500
Tons 6-inch Guns

Geneva —(AP)—Great Britain Tuesday proposed at the technical committee of the tri-partite naval conference that cruisers be divided into two classes, one of 10,000 tons carrying eight-inch guns and the other of 7,500 tons with six-inch guns.

Both the American and Japanese delegations requested time to examine the proposal "in the light of the effect it would have on the navies of each power concerned by the life of the treaty."

A communique issued at the close of Tuesday morning's session said that the meeting was devoted to preliminary examination of proposals relating to the cruiser class of vessels.

STICK TO POSITION Information from American sources indicated that the American delegates will stand tenaciously by their decision not to reopen the Washington treaty.

It is not unlikely that the Japanese have been given clearly to understand that any move to redress the Washington accord is extremely undesirable and that it would only furnish an opportunity to those seeking it to reconsider the whole problem of the American position in the Pacific, including the American strategic situation.

OFFICER REPORTS TRYST OF ACTRESS AND KELLY

Los Angeles —(AP)—A deputy sheriff's report of a tryst between Dorothy MacKaye and Paul Kelly, after the latter was convicted of manslaughter and death of her husband, added spice to the conspiracy trial of the actress here Tuesday.

182 TO 1 SHOT WINS BUT 2 NEARLY FAINT WHEN THEY COLLECT

Chicago —(AP)—Only four known persons, including the owner, bet on a horse that paid off of 182 to 1 at the Homewood track Monday, and when the long shot came home a victor, two almost swooned.

It was the Kentucky thoroughbred Blue Blood who wrote race history for Illinois when she finished two lengths in front in the five furlong race. The horse's owner, Carter Everett, apparently, was the only person in the park who wagered more than $2. He played $20 "on the nose" and collected $3,631. He was overcome when the odds were posted.

A class of water had to be hurried to a woman in the clubhouse, who bordered on hysterics when she saw that her $2 ticket across the board had returned her $610.20. A man near the judges stand who had squandered $2 on a win ticket was overcome with grief when he saw that he had gained $263.10. A Negro stable boy appeared to be the only other person who had bet $2 on the horse.

There were 15 contractors who submitted bids which ranged from the low figure to $170,000.

BULLETIN
New York —(AP)—The weather bureau Tuesday afternoon advised Commander Richard E. Byrd that atmospheric conditions were unfavorable for the start of his trans-Atlantic flight Wednesday morning.

New York —(AP)—Storm of the type that have held Commander Richard E. Byrd and his crew of three earthbound for weeks are regarded by experts as likely to lead to choice of a trans-Atlantic route via Bermuda and the Azores.

Dr. James H. Kimball, assistant meteorologist of the United States Weather bureau, who advised both Lindbergh and Chamberlin no weather conditions for their European flights, believe the northern great circle course, will always present its obstacles of storm and wind.

"We have the men and the courage that has been demonstrated," he said. "But I cannot possibly conceive of an airplane built in the next few years that can ride out a North Atlantic gale without any danger of safety."

It was agreed that Wednesday morning would be the earliest possible hour for a departure, with the probability that favorable weather would not arrive until later.

In discussing his plans, Byrd, according to the New York world, inadvertently indicated he intended to fly back across the Atlantic if he succeeds in his flight to Paris.

Commander Byrd, says the world, had been telling his reporter he planned to fly at a height of 15,000 feet on the way to Paris. "On the way back," he is quoted as saying "we would probably fly much closer to the surface."

The big plane meanwhile continues poised at its starting mound at Roosevelt field, Long Island.

RACINE MAN HELD IN FLORIDA TRAGEDY

Wealthy Inventor Who Drove Car into Bay to Face Coroner's Jury

Miami, Fla. —(AP)—Fred Osus, wealthy Racine inventor, was arrested Tuesday morning and is being held without bond pending an inquest into the drowning Monday night of Mrs. Bertha Miller and her seven-year-old son, Marvin. Osus surrendered after the drownings which occurred when an automobile he was driving plunged into Biscayne bay, but he was released when his condition showed signs of nervous collapse.

Mrs. Miller and her son were pinned into the rear seat of Osus car by a glass partition after the automobile turned over in the water and unsuccessful attempts were made to rescue them. Osus and Bain Miller, husband of the drowned woman, managed to extricate themselves. Osus was picked up by a boat and Miller swam ashore. The party was said to have been coming to Miami for a dinner in celebration of the Millers' tenth wedding anniversary.

OWNED MILLINERY STORE Racine —(AP)—Frederick J. Osus is proprietor of a millinery store here for many years. Then he took to inventing and came out in the market with a vibrator which he took to New York city where he opened large, elegantly furnished offices in the center of the district. His small plant, located on the fourth floor of a downtown building here, grew as orders came in and he was obliged to move it to a larger plant where it later became the property of the McCrum-Howell company. Later he organized another company, adding vacuum sweepers and other articles. That business was sold some years ago and he then retired and moved to Florida. As far as known he is not connected with local industries at this time.

THIRD MOVE TO KILL GROUP IS BADLY BEATEN

Senator Blanchard Says Commission Has Not Had Time to Prove Self

Madison —(AP)—A third and possible final attempt to abolish the Wisconsin Highway commission failed in the state senate Tuesday. Without a recorded vote, members of the upper house rejected a bill by the special legislative highway investigating committee which paralleled two other bills previously killed.

The bill was assailed vigorously by Senator Blanchard who has consistently upheld the commission. Senators Goodland, Schumann and Titus were the principal advocates of the bill.

Senator Blanchard asked that the present highway commission be not condemned because "so far the members have not had time to prove themselves."

"The investigating committee's bill," he said, "is worse than the two bills that have gone before. It would return the ex-officio members to the commission but allow them no vote. The ex-officio members are the ones that should be allowed to vote because they can't be bought."

The bill resulted from an inquiry conducted by the committee into alleged irregularities in the workings of the commission. Scores of witnesses were called before the group giving testimony of a varied nature. It was generally considered to be the final attempt of commission opponents to bring about its abolishment.

The senate also killed Senator Caldwell's substitute to Senator Wright's gasoline tax bill calling for a four cent tax. The original bill by White asked a five cent tax.

KILL "THANKS" BILL Amid shouts of "politics," Wisconsin's famous "thanks" bill, which was killed by a 7 to 13 vote in the senate Monday night. The resolution would have thanked the Wisconsin senators and representatives for their work in congress in the enactment of a federal dairy law.

The action Monday night was regarded as a rebuff to the members of the house who had refused earlier in the session to give former Senator L. L. Lenroot a vote of thanks for his work.

Madison —(AP)—The senate refused to pass over Governor Zimmerman's veto the bill by Senator Morris, appropriating $8,000 for use in compiling records of Wisconsin soldiers and others in the world war. The vote on upholding the veto was 15 to 10.

The upper house also killed a bill, introduced through committee, to increase the salaries of the secretary of state, treasurer, attorney general, state superintendent of public instruction and the insurance commissioner from $5,000 a year to $5,500. The original bill called for a $2,500 boost but it was amended. Vote was 16 to 9.

DISCREDIT RUMOR THAT FRENCH AGES ARE FOUND

Ottawa, Ont. —(AP)—Another rumor, apparently baseless, that the French actors, Yunguesse and Cell, have been found alive was current for a time here Tuesday.

The rumor originated in a message said to have been sent by Frank James of Seattle, Wash., to Charles Stewart, minister of the interior, at Ottawa, asserting that the missing flier had been found near the northern shore of "Ghost lake" east of the town of "Calqueit" in northeastern Quebec. The message said that both men were badly in need of medical attention. The department of the interior began an investigation of the message. Nothing is known in Ottawa of Frank James, nor is there any such town or lake as those given in the message.

Mrs. Maitland Confident Of Her Husband's Success

Washington —"I feel very confident" was the comment of Mrs. Lester J. Maitland, concerning her husband's chances for success in his Hawaiian flight. Mrs. Maitland is visiting her father, Dr. William A. White, widely known alumnus. She said she was "not a bit nervous." She plans to meet her husband on the coast on his return which she thinks will "not" be by plane.

The army is "on its own" in the Hawaiian flight. Light ships at sea are expected to report the progress of the plane, but there have been no orders for the formation of ship lines to guarantee safety in the event of a forced landing. The army's explanation is that there will be no forced landing.

"You know we will do our stuff," was the parting message sent to the Hawaiian flight by Lieut. Maitland, just before he hopped off with Lieut. Hegenberger for Hawaii. Assistant Secretary of War, Davis received the telegram and proudly showed it about the department.

COOLIDGE FAVORS CENTRAL BUREAU TO RULE POSSESSIONS

Discloses Plan in Discussion With Gen. Wood of Philippines

Rapids City, S. D. —(AP)—Establishment of a central bureau for administration of all insular possessions under control of a civil department of the government rather than the army and navy is favored by President Coolidge.

Following a brief discussion with Governor Leonard Wood of the Philippines at his Black Hills residence the president believes the department of the interior would be a proper department to take over this work.

While he has no criticism of the present administration by the army and navy he feels the possessions are deserving of administration by a civil branch of the government. The government reorganization commission recommended placing the possessions under the state department.

Mr. Coolidge is greatly encouraged over conditions in the Philippines as a result of his conference with General Wood and also is confident that the governor general will be strong enough to resume his duties in the fall.

Coming to his office at 8:30 Tuesday morning the president announced the appointment of Walter O. Woods of Kansas, as register of the treasury to succeed Harley V. Speelman, resigned.

COURT AGAIN HEARS WOMAN'S COMPLAINT AGAINST REALTOR

Case Sent Back by Supreme Court for Retrial Is Opened in Judge Berg's Court

Retrial of the case of Mrs. Katy Fritsch, who claimed against P. A. Kornely which was remanded for further proceedings by the state supreme court is being heard by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court.

The case was started in February, 1925, and on May 3, 1927, the supreme court reversed the judgment of Judge Heinemann, who presided as acting judge in municipal court, against Mrs. Fritsch with costs taxed at $22.87.

The case involves a deal between Mrs. Fritsch and Kornely on Jan. 12, 1918, when the woman placed a loan of $1,500 with him to be invested in a mortgage. The note and mortgage were later converted into common stock in a Minnesota land company and the plaintiff alleged this was done without her knowledge.

Mrs. Fritsch, who is a widow declared she depended on the $1,500 for support and with the exception of her home it was her sole capital. She declared she could neither read nor write and has poor eyesight and is slightly deaf. The money she placed with Kornely was to draw 6 per cent interest from a farm said to be worth $7,500 which contained 150 acres of land of which 140 acres were under cultivation and all of which was tillable. The farm also was said to be well equipped with live stock and farm machinery.

Mrs. Fritsch complained that instead of receiving 6 per cent interest on her money she received but 5 per cent and no interest whatsoever was paid for the years 1921 and 1922.

The plaintiff declared she went to Kornely and asked him to foreclose which, she said, he agreed to do.

Some time later, on Sept. 11, 1923, he gave her $75 on a loan and also another paper which she says he failed to explain. When she consulted attorneys she learned that instead of having a farm foreclosed she had received a certificate for seven shares of Class A common stock in the Twin City Land company of a par value of $100 for which she had been charged $125 and that she had been given $75 in return for her $1,500 mortgage.

Kornely's answer was that he has sold a number of mortgages on lands in western states, such as accuring from reputable business houses and that the interest was always paid promptly. In the deal with Mrs. Fritsch he stated he had given her only information concerning the property he had had from examiners. He said the plaintiff agreed to allow him 1 per cent of the total 6 per cent as his

MR. MENCKEN'S LATEST WAIL

Herr H. L. Mencken, critique extraordinary and impresario of gloom, has found something else to wail over. This time it is the newspapers. The erudite Baltimore editor in a recent editorial said journalism in the republic was in a bad way. This mainly is due to the decay of the old-time reporter, the heart and soul of the American newspapers of the last generation, he says. "***** The current rush to get upon the streets with hot news, even at the cost of printing only half of it, has pretty well destroyed all his old qualities," declares Mr. Mencken. He no longer writes what he has seen or heard; he telephones it to a remote and impersonal rewrite man. This rewrite man, not infrequently, is a fellow of considerable talent. He knows how to write quickly and clearly; he tries to be as accurate as possible. But it must be manifest that, hanging on his telephone, maybe miles away from the event he is describing, he is completely unable to get into his description any of the vividness of a thing actually seen. He does the best he can, but that best is to the reporting of a fairer era as a mummy is to a man."

Mr. Mencken is right in some respects. Certain metropolitan papers use rewrite men almost exclusively and they do turn out a raft of second hand news but even so the average American newspaper is better written and edited than ever before. It is more attractively made up, prints more news and contains items that have some appeal for everyone. It is true the day of personal journalism is past, but the readers are the gainers. In the "good old days" newspapers were founded principally to further the aims of some politician or political party or to spread propaganda for some cause. They were purely propaganda sheets and the dissemination of accurate and timely news was secondary.

Ninety-eight per cent of the newspapers of today are free from political influence. They are newspapers in all that the word implies. They disseminate the news, regardless of who it concerns, and do it quickly and accurately. Their reporters are better educated, more reliable and better writers than were the old-timers. They have more initiative and courage than their predecessors and they seldom, if ever, fall down on the job. Furthermore, the readers get more information as to what is going on in the world than ever before, and it is not biased or colored.

Journalism in these United States has progressed mightily in the past generation. Twenty-nine years ago when Dewey wiped out the Spanish fleet at Manila it was nearly twenty-four years before the world heard about it. A few days ago when Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh landed in Paris on his epoch-making trans-Atlantic flight, the world knew about it within ten minutes. The news of Lindbergh's landing was nearly twenty-four years before the world heard about it. A few days ago when Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh landed in Paris on his epoch-making trans-Atlantic flight, the world knew about it within ten minutes. The news of Lindbergh's landing was nearly twenty-four years before the world heard about it.

When Mr. Mencken was writing his tirade he overlooked some real reporters. For instance, Kirk Simpson of the Associated Press, who won fame with his "Unknown Soldier" story; David Lawrence and his Peace conference articles; Robert T. Small and his stories from the American and British war fronts in France; Heywood Brown and his state articles; Westbrook Pegler and his scorching editorials. There are scores more and their stuff is of excellent quality. Twenty-five or thirty years ago only one newspaper could get the stories of these reporters. Now it is possible for several hundred to purchase their output and as a consequence the man living in a small town or city gets the same quality of news as the reader in the bigger cities. Today the average small city newspaper has nearly as much live and well written news as its metropolitan competitor. A generation ago the small town newspaper was indeed a sad affair, but now it takes off its hat to no one, for it has leased press wires, special writers and illustrated feature services in addition to its own editorial staff to serve up the world's news to its readers. Of course there is still room for improvement and it will come.

BUSINESS IN GOVERNMENT

By a vote of about five to one Indianapolis has adopted a proposal to install the city manager system of government there Jan. 1, 1930. Why the city should wait more than two years before putting the change into effect we do not know, but that is of small importance. The fact that it is to go to the managerial form is the thing of real significance. Gradually but surely Americans are coming to the frame of mind which demands business rather than political administration of local government. Up to the first of the year 336 cities had gone over to managers, placing municipal administration on practically the same basis as that of a private business corporation. Very few which have tried the plan have abandoned it. The best governed cities in the United States use it, and as a class they are distinctly the most progressive cities.

Such large and enterprising cities as Cleveland, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Dayton, Grand Rapids, Sacramento, Fort Worth, Miami, and now Indianapolis are among the larger cities which conduct the business side of municipal government with a general manager. In Canada, Montreal leads the movement. Uniformly the system has given a good account of itself. It continues to spread despite its vigorous opposition by politicians. Eventually it or something akin to it will prevail in practically all American cities, for the simple reason that the people cannot afford to do otherwise. They cannot afford to handle so extensive a business as municipal government in the slipshod, extravagant, wasteful ways it is now handled by politicians, merely for the sake of giving men of popularity and their hangers-on employment, and of satisfying their ambitions. Too much is involved to the taxpayers and to the interests of the municipality. We pay a heavy price for petty and foolish politics, but some day we will come to our senses and stop it. Some day we shall demand that public business be conducted like private business.

RAILROAD COMMISSION NEEDS HELP

The State Railroad commission is perhaps on the whole the most valuable service body that exists for the advancement of business and commerce in Wisconsin. It also performs a great work in safeguarding the interests of the people in their relations with public utilities. In no state does a better relationship exist, nor are utilities in a healthier condition. It is the one department of government that promotes our prosperity industrially and commercially, and that stands between Wisconsin's economic interests and their injury by outside forces.

In recent years the Railroad commission has been called upon to give much energy and time to fighting for the protection of Wisconsin's rights in transportation. It has creditably handled several noted cases involving rate readjustments that were of the utmost importance to the state, including the lake carriers coal rate case, and it is now engaged in trying to save Wisconsin's interests in the general rate revisions asked by the railroads. The controversies over rate proposals alone mean the making or breaking of Wisconsin in many lines of manufacturing, wholesaling and retailing. They touch the progress and welfare of the state vitally.

The Railroad commission has been put to heavy expense in defending Wisconsin against prejudicial rate adjustments and changes, and in otherwise serving the people. It takes money to meet the resources and legal representation of the railroads, particularly when we are on the defensive so much of the time. The commission now finds itself without funds. It has asked for an emergency appropriation from the present legislature of $20,000, and it has been authorized by both houses. The money is greatly needed for the proper functioning of the commission, and for adequate representation of the state in the pending rate cases. It is an entirely worthy and sound appropriation and we urge Governor Zimmerman to give the bill his approval.

FOOD AND SICK HEADACHE

Mrs. J. K., aged 38 years, 70 inches tall, weighs 170 pounds. She reports that sick headaches of frequent occurrence since childhood have been overcome in the last three or four months through osteopathic treatment and advice to exclude from her diet white bread, potatoes and sweets. She feels fine, her head is clear, she no longer requires physics. She has been subject to sinus trouble, but that, too, is now better. The osteopathic physician tells her her circulation is poor due to "toxic in blood" and he says the sinus trouble is also due to "toxic in blood." She now has "crunchy sounds" in knees and other joints, stiffness in one knee, aching and sharp stabs in arms and legs, and so on, and she wants to know how the blood can be cleared of "toxic poisoning."

Toxin is a medical term for poison, a poison produced by germs, for instance, diphtheria toxin, typhoid toxin, or what have you. So it is like saying damp wetness to call any state "toxic poisoning." No doubt this "toxic" has hit on a sound fundamental principle of treatment—he has apparently persuaded a patient to curb the habit of overeating. He has done it in a rather skillful, though perhaps not a scientific way. That is, he has persuaded the patient to cut out all or most of the carbohydrate from her diet—starches and sugars. This is certainly the quickest way to bring about relief from many of the ills produced by overeating. But there is some doubt in my mind whether it is wise to cut the carbohydrate too drastically if the patient is not confined to bed. I have a crude notion that such a policy may predispose to acidosis, and that is more "toxic in the blood" than whatever this good woman already had. But I do not mean to censure the osteopathic physician's treatment—he has accomplished something for the patient in relieving her sick headaches, and he deserves credit for that, in spite of his narrow pathism.

Even such a tall woman as Mrs. J. K. should not weigh over 165 pounds and might with benefit to general health and favorable influence to longevity weigh only 155 pounds. So without any regard for pathies or for toxic in the blood it is a good fundamental health principle for such a person to reduce a bit in the consumption of food nourishing food, and there is no better more nourishing food than white bread, potatoes and sweets. Without regard for sick headaches, or for high blood pressure, or for hot flashes or for shortness of breath or for a score of familiar complaints of middle aged folk who like their eats and dislike muscular work, it is still a good sound principle to have aboard an accurate scale occasionally and when the accused indicator suggests that one is eating too much, to try going without lunch or taking only one small meal, or one cup of coffee instead of three or possessing up the breakfast cereal or conserving the potato supply or eliminating the eggs for a few weeks.

Mrs. J. K. attempts to tell me about her joints—I say she attempts it. There's another very good reason for the practice of temperance in eating. Let's not try to name her joint disease—that's a job for her physician. But it is impressive, the number of people who report relief of such joint disease after a reasonable period of retrenchment in eats.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Strong Boy Stuff

It has been my habit for years to make a lunch of a pint of milk and two oranges. Recently in a noon-day walk I heard one of these strong boys who stand in front of the EVD's in a flannel shirt and a crowd about "these" oranges and milk together were as poisonous as carbolic acid or Paris Green.

(H. H. F.)

Answer—The strong boys know the mental caliber of the audience. Mix your foods as your own taste directs and don't worry about any bad "combinations." That is just one of the sucker catches of the people who employ the strong boys. The buttermilk or fermented milk concerns ought to combat the strong boy propaganda. Yes, and the lemon pie factories ought to protest. Under the constitution every citizen has a right to mix his foods as he prefers without regard for the feelings of the mail order and strong boy magazine swindlers.

Likes Lots of Sugar

Please tell me if there is any harm to a person who craves sugar if they eat eight or 10 teaspoons a day. It seems I must have it, and I wonder if it harms me. (S. G.)

Answer—Not at all, provided you work, play or exercise actively, to burn the fuel. If you are inclined to be too stout, the sugar will fatten you up fast.

NOMINATING METHODS

Washington, D. C. — The direct primary as the dominant form of nominating candidates for public office in this country is not likely to be done away in the immediate future as a result of the somewhat wide demand for a return to the convention system.

The primary will live for some time in any event, but if it is to survive permanently more progress must be made in correcting some of its obvious defects than has been made in the past.

Accompanied by the long ballot, by the spoils system in state government, by ineffective party leadership, and by staggering campaign expenditures, the primary is not likely to stand.

The specific improvements which must be made before it can be hoped that it will work satisfactorily are the reorganization of state and county governments to the end of shortening the ballot, the extension of the merit system in public employment, the development of party unity and leadership through the party conference and party managing committees, and some effective means of limiting campaign funds and regulating campaign expenditures.

These are the conclusions set forth in a study of nominating methods that has been published by the Department of Efficiency in Government of the National League of Women Voters. Instead of its being a long treatise on the subject of the direct primary, with elaborate arguments pro or con, the author, Helen M. Rocca, has brought together in condensed form all the available data on nominating methods in the various States, together with excerpts from the writings of the leading authorities on the subject, and has expressed her own views succinctly and without the bias of a champion of a cause or an idea. Her booklet is already widely in demand for reference purposes.

Miss Rocca is a graduate of the University of California, where she taught political science for a time. She has been at the head of the research staff of the League for several years.

WHY WOMEN FAVOR PRIMARIES

Women favor the primary method of naming candidates largely because it affords them a much greater opportunity to exert an influence in politics. In conventions the average number of women delegates will not be more than a tenth of the total number of delegates. In the 1926 Republican state convention in New York there were 127 delegates, and only 27 were women, which was rather below the average, but in the important work of convention, such as representation on the resolution committee where they had but four members out of 51, their participation ran below the average.

In primaries, however, women now cast approximately 40 per cent of the total vote, and if they respond to the clarion calls of their leaders the time may be close at hand when they will cast as many votes as the men, or may even be in the majority. Thus it is apparent that women can take part in primaries precisely to the degree to which they care to exercise their voting prerogative. In conventions they as yet enjoy a participation only such as the men grudgingly concede must be accorded them.

Quoting the saying that the worst that can be said about the direct primary is that it has disappointed expectations, Miss Rocca says that the best that can be said about it is that it offers a means of popular control whenever the voters wish to use it. If the rank and file of the voters do not appreciate this, the politicians may succeed in gaining the upper hand temporarily and forcing a retreat of the convention system. Miss Rocca does not regard this as likely, but says there is some evidence to indicate that a combination of the convention and primary, such as in six States—Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Maryland, Michigan and New York—already have, may be tried out on a larger scale. Many of the primary reform measures in recent years have sought to establish such a combination.

"Another possibility," says Miss Rocca, "is that, after the English method, nomination by petition may gradually be adopted on a wide scale not only for independent nominations as at present, but for all nominations. Nomination by petition is now the only method of nomination recognized for municipal elections in Boston, and if parties wish to make nominations they must do so by filing a petition in the same way as any other group of voters."

"Nomination by petition combined with proportional representation may be more widely adopted in the election of local legislative bodies, although proportional representation is not likely to be used for the election of members of the state legislatures. Similarly nomination by petition may be coupled with the preferential ballot in the choice of single candidates or again, the so-called non-partisan primary, if used extensively might have the same result as nomination by petition—that is, to free the party from legal restraint and put it on the same basis as any other group of voters in making nominations."

Numerous charges are brought against the primary by those who seek to supersede it by the old convention system of selecting candidates. The more important of these indictments are that the primary weakens or destroys party responsibility, that it produces inferior candidates, that it places too great a burden upon the voter, that it is too expensive, and that it fails to bring out a large vote, and that it does not provide effective means of party compromise and consultation.

As to the special merits claimed for the primary, Charles Evans Hughes' address to the National Municipal League in 1921 is cited: "It places a weapon in the hands of the party voters which they can use with effect in case of need. They are no longer helpless. This fact puts party leaders on their best behavior. It is a safeguard to the astute and unselfish leader who is endeavoring to maintain good standards in line with public sentiment. It favors a disposition not to create situations which are likely to challenge and test."

"The fact of this control gives to the voters a consciousness of power and responsibility. If things do not go right, they know that the trouble lies with them. The importance of this assurance should not be overlooked in any discussion of the apathy of the electorate."

"But," she adds, "the primary does not act automatically; the voter must use his weapon if he wishes it to be effective. And, honest experimentation of every kind should be welcomed. The direct primary could have no worse enemy than one who fails to see its faults and refuses to consider other more promising than does the new nominating devices which may primary."

HOME TALENT ON RADIO ADVERTISES MANY CITIES

BY DON E. MOWRY
Secretary, the American Community Advertising Association

Dozens of cities are finding that radio brings a good medium to attract business, to advertise industries, to bring in new trade, and to attain good will.

There are two methods of procedure now being used for the city to can and manage its own radio and all programs at once. WKRL, at Baltimore; WJLB, at Jacksonville; and WJG, at New York City, are three examples of radio owned stations.

The other method is for a city or its Chamber of Commerce, to finance municipal hours from privately owned stations. WJZ at Springfield, Mass., and WTAM, at Cleveland, have such programs.

Programs sponsored by these cities contain no long-winded addresses or city in the world," and so on. The aim is to present good entertainment, and "home talent" is usually featured.

There is a double benefit. In such good-will community advertising, the residents of the city are made aware that their Chamber of Commerce or city administration is a live organization, and these listeners in turn become city boosters.

Residents of other cities are made aware that the cities sponsoring these programs are progressive.

Applause cards by the hundreds have come to all cities that have taken up radio community advertising.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—Manhattan snapshots—Nassau street. . . . Named back in "ye-good-old times" after William, Prince of Nassau who became King of England. . . . And now dedicated to the feet of millions plodding through the steel and concrete canyons of the business world. . . . Ticker tape blows loose streamers from the windows and busy men dash in and out of doorways.

Yet once there lived in a Nassau street a certain Mary Rogers who, somewhere around 1842, sold cigars in a store on Broadway. . . . She was very beautiful, the story goes, and men would stop to flirt and try to make arrangements. . . . Not ordinary men, either. . . . They had names like Washington Irving, Edgar Allan Poe, James Gordon Bennett, and James Fennimore Cooper. . . . One day her mutilated body was found in the river off Hoboken. It had been floating for several days. . . . But it appealed to the morbid imagination of Poe and there came out of Nassau street that classic horror tale, "The Mystery of Marie Rogée."

On the site of Marie Rogée's shop—No. 1266—a huge building rises and stenographers stream in and out, hurrying to lunch. . . . What would happen if you asked any of them if they had ever heard of Marie Rogers?

The first white resident of the street, Manhattan history says, was a pie woman. . . . Where she peddled "her wares" today's an aged pretzel woman broods over her little stock in trade.

And just around the corner lived Captain Kidd. . . . But they don't have to dig for buried treasure in this belt. . . . In a single day the tickets tell of sums exchanged that make the Kidd treasure seem like small change.

Everywhere you turn there is still some suggestion of Lindbergh. . . . Smart Fifth-ave shops show men's scarfs with little airplane flying across the corners. . . . Women's stockings show clocks that end in tiny silk monoplanes. . . . Sandwich men have dropped their boards and taken to selling buttons and imitation gold emblems. . . . In Broadway, hucksters sell toy monoplanes that fly across strings or run along when wound up. . . . In the belts where the new subways are being built the kids have invented a game. . . . The purpose is to get from one side of the ditch to the other, this symbolizing an Atlantic Ocean, without being stopped by other youngsters. . . . It's a variation on tag, made to order for the occasion.

Riding along the elevated photographs of Lindy peer from thousands of windows. . . . Tim Far Alley rushes airplane songs from the piano as fast as they can be ground out. . . . Even George M. Cohan has done one. . . . Pianists bang them from the little Broadway shops and vaudeville teams struggle for some line that will get a hand. . . . It's as good as waving the flag. . . . Cheap entertainers recite maudlin verses to whining music and, should Lindbergh hear them, I fear his stomach would turn.

And so it goes. . . .

telescopes for several months; but it is expected that it will be scarcely visible at any time to the naked eye. Q. Is a patent agent the same as a patent attorney? M. R.

A. Among patent attorneys, the term patent agent is used interchangeably with patent attorney. However, generally speaking, a patent agent is one who disposes of a patent to a manufacturer.

Q. What does it cost counties to have Home Extension? F. R. B.

A. The Department of Agriculture says that the salaries of county agents vary in the different States, the average throughout the country being $2400 a year. Since county agents' expenses are paid, the cost of supporting one runs as high as $3500 often appointed for three or four years. In some States, one agent is often appointed for three or four counties.

Q. Where is Queen Louise of Prussia buried? M. M.

A. Queen Louise of Prussia is buried in the garden of the palace at Charlottenburg in Germany. A mausoleum and a recumbent statue have been erected on the site. It is the custom among admirers of the Queen to place wreaths on the grave on the anniversary of her birth or death.

BREEDERS LAUD BROWN SWISS TYPE AS BEST IN COUNTRY

150 PERSONS ATTEND ANNUAL PICNIC IN VAN PATTEN'S GROVE

"Brown Swiss Cow Makes Good Wherever Tested," Association President Says

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Black Creek—One hundred fifty people attended the annual picnic of the Outagamie County Brown Swiss Breeders' association in Van Patten's grove Sunday afternoon. Mr. Van Patten delivered the address of welcome and O. F. Rohm, president of the association, gave the response. Other speakers were Fred Weishoff, Robert Amundson, county agent and William Hurst, secretary of the association.

In his talk on the excellence of the Brown Swiss breed of cattle, Mr. Rohm said:

"The Brown Swiss is the coming breed of cattle in this country. We are here because we love the Brown Swiss cow. We believe that she will be feeding the babies of this country soon. Wherever she has been tried out, this type of cow has made good. Out of eight Brown Swiss cows officially tested, four made 100 pounds of butter each. This record cannot be beaten by any other breed, and yet less than 10,000 Brown Swiss cows are in the United States at the present time.

"One reason why I favor this breed is that there are so few Brown Swiss in this country and the demand will be great for years to come. It took me nine years to get the Brown Swiss breed for my own use. I waited just nine years too long but even after the close of that period, I scoured the county and could find no animals for sale. As a last resort, I went to William Hurst and informed him that I must have six Brown Swiss, heifer calves. Mr. Hurst replied that he did not have six calves or any calves for sale. I then bought the six calves from this breeder before they were born. I have six Brown Swiss animals now, but I wish I had a dozen.

BREED INSURES SUCCESS

"The dairyman who takes up Brown Swiss cattle before long will do well. Mr. Hurst has lately sold his entire lot of 21 animals to Emil Schmidt, Manitowish. You never hear of breeders of other kinds of purebreds making a sweeping sale like that. But Mr. Hurst will soon begin developing another herd of Brown Swiss. He would not have sold his herd for any other reason than he got his price.

"When we have good cattle for sale—something that will stand up—sellers should get their price. We should at least get as high a price for our Brown Swiss animals as breeders of other kinds of purebreds get for their surplus animals.

"The Brown Swiss cow is the cow for the farmer. She is a great worker. When pasture is short she will rustle for the feed she needs, get it and make good. I believe we have just as good Brown Swiss animals in Outagamie-co as the one recently sold by Dr. Osborn of Iowa for $3,000. If we have an animal that is worth a certain price we should ask that price and get it."

STRONG FAIR EXHIBIT

In his talk, Mr. Amundson said: "Your exhibit at the Seymour fair last fall did more to advertise your breed of cattle and what you are doing than anything you could do. Your organization at work at the fair, the management, your separate team, and your excellent display of cattle, did the work.

"As there is no prettier animal in the world than the Brown Swiss calf, I suggest that this fall you pick out a few of your calves, train them to lead, and that you also select four or five boys and girls, 10 or 12 years of age, dressed in Swiss costumes, to lead the calves around the grounds and past the grand stands. You might also have the march made to Swiss music and your experts might do some Swiss yodeling. I am positive that the exhibit you made at the Seymour fair last fall was worth while and for that reason, it should be repeated this fall."

CONSIDER PRODUCTION

In a brief talk, Mr. Weishoff said that he had learned a lot from the exhibit made at the Seymour fair last fall. He criticized judging cows on the basis of type alone and argued that production should also be considered. "At one fair I attended last fall, I Hortonville—One of the active promoters of cow testing associations of this vicinity is Henry Dobberstein, route 2. Mr. Dobberstein had his cows tested nine years without a break.

"While I belonged to the cow testing association, I know how much milk each cow in my herd was producing," said Mr. Dobberstein. "and the value of the feed she consumed. Knowing these two facts, I easily determined whether feeding the cow was a paying or a losing proposition. If a cow showed a loss, I experimented with various rations to determine whether the loss was due to breeding or to a lack of some element of feed her system required. If the loss was due to feed, she is soon changed to profitable cow, but if due to breeding, she went to the block.

"Since I joined a testing association, I have learned considerable about the various balanced rations for dairy cows and I am a great deal more particular about feeding cows than I ever thought of being before. If a cow is not doing well the cow

ENCOURAGE GUERNSEY EXHIBITS AT FAIR

Waupaca—To obtain creditable exhibits of local, purebred Guernsey cattle at the Waupaca County fair this fall, Carl T. Knutson, president of the Waupaca County Breeders' association, and Edw. H. Hurst, county leader of 4-H clubs, visited several large Guernsey breeders of the county on Thursday. Among the breeders visited were L. M. Rowe, secretary of the Guernsey Breeders' association, route 1, Ogdensburg; W. H. Taggart, route 1, Manawa; C. Joch, route 1, Weyauwega; L. P. Jacklin, route 5, Waupaca, and R. L. Pope, route 5, Waupaca. Each of these breeders agreed favorably disposed toward making an exhibit, and each has a number of fine animals for display.

know that the calf that was awarded first place could not produce milk enough to feed her calf," said Mr. Weishoff. "I am in favor of judging no type but production ought to be considered also in awarding prizes."

Mr. Hurst, as secretary of the association, requested all Brown Swiss breeders to list their animals for sale with him and, considering it a matter of business, to answer all inquiries of buyers by letter. "Sale after sale has been made the past year," said Mr. Hurst, "as a result of the list of animals for sale filed with me at the beginning of last season. Answer all inquiries whether you have the animals wanted or not. The breeder who does so when he has no animals of the kind in demand is one who makes future sales readily," continued Mr. Hurst.

Violin duets were rendered by Kolath and Sachs and Philip Eich and son. The program was opened by the singing of "America" by the audience. Orpheus Schultz, Miss Burl Corburn and Roy Kolath were on the program for recitations.

In a sewing contest in which Mrs. C. J. Van Patten, Miss Louise Genske, Mrs. William Hurst and Miss Emma Hintz were the contestants, Mrs. Van Patten won the honors and a new saw as a prize.

Miss Louise Genske won a nail-driving contest and a hammer as a prize. Other competitors were Mrs. Albert Teichlin, Mrs. Arthur Wolf, Miss Emma Hintz and Mrs. Van Patten.

TO EXHIBIT CATTLE

In a canvass of the Brown Swiss breeders at the picnic, Louis Genske consented to display two purebred animals at the Seymour fair, this fall: Gust Krieger, one animal; A. W. Litzkow, six; E. A. Mueller and H. E. Beckenbach, six; C. J. Van Patten, two; Joseph Landwehr, three; Fred Weishoff, two, and Charles Mueller, four.

A committee consisting of William Hurst and Robert Amundson, was appointed by the chair to find suitable calves for members of calf clubs. It was decided to hold the 1928 annual picnic of the association in the grove of Fred Weishoff, on highway 47, four miles north of Black Creek.

tester invariably suggests some change in feed.

"Before I belonged to an association all my surplus calves were vealed and brought a very low price and I had trouble in getting a fair price for a cow that I considered a good milk cow. Now I know which calves to raise and which to dispose of for veal and I have no trouble in selling either surplus calves or cows. In the case of calves all I need do is to show the production record of their dams.

"Lately I sold several calves to be used in calf club work in Nebraska. I have not sold a heifer calf in years for veal. My neighbors know from reports that I have good cows and they are ready to buy the calves of these cows.

"Besides being able to make quick sales of my surplus animals, I have improved my herd to the point that I get a great deal more milk and butter than formerly from each cow and from the herd without any increase in the cost of feed.

"As a result of improving my herd, I had high cow in the cow testing association in December and in January high cow and high herd. In December my herd of 21 cows produced 22,057 pounds of milk and 784.4 pounds of butterfat. In January, 24 cows produced 22,952 pounds of milk and 831.1 pounds of butterfat."

REPORT IMPROVED BUTTER MARKET

Grass Cheese Demands Not High as Expected—Cattle Show Decline

Madison—(AP)—A slight improvement in butter markets, closing steady to firm, is reported by the state department of markets for the past week. Interest in grass cheese for storage purposes has failed to meet expectations, the department says, although an increase in prices on hog markets is noted. Cattle showed a sharp decline. The report follows:

Butter buyers operated cautiously. During the second week and up to June 18 the markets were nervous and unsettled. During the past week ending June 23, a slight improvement took place and the market closed steady to firm. The outstanding feature of the butter markets is the lack of speculative demand which, during June, is almost necessary in order to provide a healthy active market. The explanation lies in the fact that during the month of June production exceeds the consumptive demand, a fair volume of speculative business being necessary to keep dealers' floors clear. As a result of inactive trade during month of June, receivers were sending a large percentage of their arrivals to the freezers being anxious to avoid taking losses which would be incurred by selling at current levels of prices. For the past several weeks the market on centralized cars was sluggish. Arrivals on the large markets were moved with difficulty and a considerable amount of centralized butter went to the freezers being anxious to avoid higher than last year at this time.

"The U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports that interest in grass cheese for storage purposes has failed to meet expectations. Storage buyers have hesitated during the past few weeks. Cheese prices are about 2½ cents higher than last year.

"Improved shipping demand offset the effect of increased hog supplies, resulting in approximately 50 per cent more hogs being taken out of the Chicago market on eastern shipping orders for the first four days of the past week than for the corresponding period a week earlier. The increase in prices as compared with the previous week ranged from 15 to 50 cents. Hog prices $5 lower than last year at this time.

"Sharp declines in prices occurred during the past week on the cattle markets. The declines ranged from 25 cents to $1. Grass cows and heifers got the sharpest bump of the year. Cattle prices are 70 cents lower than last year."

FIRST HAY CROP OF YEAR BEING CUT BY FARMERS

Many farmers in the rural districts west of the city started cutting their first crops of hay last week, according to reports received by Alex Robedaux, weighmaster at the city scales.

Clover hay is usually cut at this time of the year and the season is occurring about the same time as last year, the farmers say. Clover hay is generally allowed to stay in the fields for one or two days before it is gathered and stored in the barns. These farmers who are raising hay on high lands report that they will start cutting other types of hay sometime this week or next if the good weather conditions continue.

CLOVER CROPS ABOVE AVERAGE THIS YEAR

Waupaca—Red, alsike and sweet clover hay crops in Waupaca-co are much above the average of the past few years. The clover in the majority of cases is so heavy that it is badly lodged.

"I strain, spring and winter and put a large crop. Corn is of good stand and color but a little backward for this time of the year. The growers say that what the corn needs is not weather with an occasional rain to produce a good crop.

LAY CONCRETE ROAD

Iola—This village, with the aid of the county, began laying a mile of concrete pavement four weeks ago and will complete the work in three weeks more time. A new system of street lighting is being installed on the principal street which thereafter will be called the "White Way."

AMUNDSON SUGGESTS METHOD TO COMBAT PLANT LOUSE PEST

Numerous Reports of Presence of Insect Made to Agricultural Agent

Farmers throughout Outagamie-co have made numerous reports to Robert Amundson, county agent, of the presence of a parasitic pest known as the aphid or plant louse which is doing considerable damage to trees, plants and bushes.

The pest is about the size of a mosquito and appears in various colors, light green, black and sometimes white. It is generally found on the underside of leaves where it sucks the juice of the plant, causing it to wither and sometimes die. The farmers are seeking an effective means of combating the ravages of the pest.

Apple, plum, and cherry trees, currant bushes and almost every species of garden plants, house plants and rose bushes all suffer from the activities of the pest.

The former method of combating the pest, Mr. Amundson said, was to saturate the affected plant or bush with a solution of soap and water or soap, water and kerosene emulsified. The latter method proved fairly satisfactory when the mixture was used together, but spraying with it had to be attended by constant stirring.

USE NICOTINE SULPHATE

The method now advised by Mr. Amundson is to take a 40 per cent "nicotine sulphate" solution and add about one-half pint of the 40 per cent solution to every 50 gallons of water. Two pounds of soap complete the remedy.

If the liquid method is not desirable the sprayers may use the powder composed of the same solution that is shot from spray guns. The powder remedy is the first satisfactory one for controlling the melon or cucumber beetle.

Inasmuch as the pest lives on the underside of the leaf, but does not eat it, poisonous sprays that cause death through eating should not be used. The nicotine solution causes death to the pest by contact and not through eating it. The liquid preparation is called "Black Leaf 40" and is obtainable at drug and other stores. The spraying process should be repeated every week until the pest disappears.

LARGE CABBAGE CROP PLANTED THIS YEAR

Outlook Is Bright for Exceptionally Large Yield in Outagamie-co

According to Phil T. Bixby, president of the Appleton Cabbage Growers association, 3,000 acres of cabbage were grown in Outagamie-co last season. They produced 30,000 tons. This season 4,000 acres were planted in the same territory.

Cabbage plants in the beds were free from maggots and disease this spring and the soil and weather were in such excellent condition for transplanting that no setback can be seen. Mr. Bixby predicts that this will be a good year for cabbage and more than the average yield per acre will be harvested. "All cabbage growers conditions point to a bumper crop," says Mr. Bixby.

Nine hundred pounds of cabbage seed for this season's crop were distributed locally by the Appleton Cabbage Growers' association and there has been and is still a big demand for cabbage plants, coming mostly from farmers who have not tried raising cabbage before or those whose seed potatoes or corn have rotted. Mr. Bixby has sold 150,000 plants this spring to meet this increased demand and several other growers have sold an equal number.

WAUPACA-CO 4-H CLUBS NOW HAVE 375 MEMBERS

Scandinavia—According to Edward Ehler, 4-H club leader of Waupaca-co, 45 4-H clubs have been organized in the county with 375 members. All the members of these clubs have chosen their projects and are at work. The district school is the unit of organization and the clubs were started at the suggestion of O. K. Everson, county superintendent of schools, who advised each teacher to form a 4-H club in her district. Thirty of the club members are to join the 4-H club camp on June 28 at Sunset lake. Clubs and club members will make exhibits at the Waupaca County fair, in the school buildings and at community fairs.

WORK BEET FIELDS

Greenview—Sixty-five acres of sugar beets divided among a number of farmers have been planted in this vicinity this spring. The beets are above ground and are being worked with cultivators and beet weeding families.

START BOOSTER CLUB IN SCANDINAVIA VILLAGE

The purpose of the club is to boost a community fair, a Fourth of July celebration, club work of all descriptions, the improvement of the frontage on Silver lake and a bathing beach, and all activities of business men, and farmers and all other movements that may benefit the village and community. The officers of the club are Curtis Hanson, president; Herbert Gorgens, treasurer, and Selmer Vole, secretary.

NOTES FROM FARMS IN VICINITY OF LEEMAN

Leeman—Mrs. Evaline Carpenter is having a new steel roof put on her barn this week. Leonard Theede of Shiocton, and Sewell Greely are doing the work.

The Roy Cook family have moved into their new farm home recently. Their home was completely destroyed by fire last fall.

A few of the farmers have begun haying. Some are busy planting cabbage now. The storm of the early part of last week did considerable damage to some of the crops, especially hay and clover.

35 ACRES OF PEAS

Hortonville—As cash crops this season, Henry Dobberstein, route 2, has 25 acres of canning peas. He also has an acre of spinach that he planted as an experiment. He cut the spinach last Friday and had it trucked to the Fox Valley Canning company.

FIND MARL USEFUL

Waupaca—Farmers in the townships of Dayton and Linn have discovered how to raise big crops of alfalfa on light soil. Their method consists of the use of Marl as a soil fertilizer which the lakes in their vicinity supply in abundance. The effect of the marl is visible now in big crops of alfalfa.

PLANT CUCUMBERS

Greenview—Growers in this vicinity on Saturday had finished planting 45 acres of cucumbers. As the weather has been too cold, the cucumbers planted early are not doing as well as usual.

GOOD CABBAGE OUTLOOK

The rains and cool weather, last week have made the conditions ideal for planting cabbage. Growers have taken advantage of these conditions and will finish planting in a few days.

SMALL GRAINS GOOD

CROW EXPERIMENTS WITH EMERGENCY HAY

Plants Sudan Grass and Soybeans—Also Uses Commercial Fertilizer on Corn

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Prof. William L. Crow, proprietor of the Crow's Dairy farm, route 4, is one of the few men in Outagamie-co who are experimenting with Sudan grass and soybeans as emergency hay crops, and with commercial fertilizer on corn.

He sowed 12 acres with mixed Sudan grass seed and soybeans at the rate of one and three-fourths bushels of Manchurian beans and ten pounds of the grass seed to the acre. In another field, he sowed an acre and one-half of soybeans and sweet clover for hog pasture. He also planted soybeans with corn in an eight acre field and used the commercial fertilizer 2-12-2 on a thirty acre cornfield, skipping rows here and there for checking purposes. Professor Crow seeded eight acres of oats with sweet clover and eight acres of oats and four acres of barley with Alsike clover.

S. E. Sommers, manager of the Crow's Dairy farm, has had three years' experience in the raising of Sudan grass and soybeans and in the use of commercial fertilizer in cornfields on Fabsit Stock farm, near Cottonwood.

Lately Professor Crow purchased nine-head of purebred Guernseys at Fond du Lac sales which gives him twenty head of dairy cattle as a total.

Fine Herd Of Guernsey Cattle On Knutson Farm

BY W. F. WINSEY
Special Farm Writer

Scandinavia—Twenty-five years ago, K. B. Knutson, route 2, and Carl T. Knutson, who is now the president of the Waupaca County Guernsey Breeders' association, started in earnest in the dairy business with a herd of mixed grades that was quite satisfactory from a production standpoint. They might have continued with the grades for an indefinite period, but, inspired by L. L. Loberg, a Portage-co breeder of purebred Guernseys, the Knutsons purchased their first purebred cow, Bindia, in 1910, of Homer Rundell, Livingston. While the Knutsons owned this cow, she made a production record of 2,009 pounds of milk and 420 pounds of butterfat for each of four years. The sire of this cow was Gold-son Ann's Fernwood of Homestead. Her dam was Madra Lu, from the herd of O. T. Remington, South Mound.

The first purebred sire owned by the Knutsons was Frank of Nettieville, purchased of D. O. Dossend, Nelsonville. Bindia produced two female and seven male calves, but about the time the sire was bought the herd became infected with abortion and most of the animals had to be disposed of in the cleanup.

The next herd sire introduced on the farm was Rival's Brother of Maple Leaf, purchased in 1915 of Fruit Sales, Waukesha. His dam had a record of 12,000 pounds of milk and 600 pounds of butterfat.

Two other foundation cows in the Knutson herd were Lizette's Beauty, 2nd, owned an A. R. record of 10,000 pounds of milk and 460 pounds of butterfat, and Brookside Myrtle, purchased as a calf at five years of age at a consignment sale in Waukesha for $120. The sire of this cow was Governor of Myrtle Place 2nd. Her dam was Lafuree De Jardine. The production record of the dam was 623 pounds of butterfat. The Knutsons now have two daughters and one granddaughter of this cow in their herd.

There are now 39 animals in the Knutson herd, equally divided between grades and purebreds, including 12 milking cows. The 12 cows are now producing 260 pounds of milk daily. The average amount of butterfat for a year for cows of all ages in the herd is 300 pounds. Some cows in the herd, however, run up to 400 pounds of butterfat. Milk is separated on the farm and the cream is delivered to a creamery at Scandinavia.

Mr. Knutson has sold a number of purebred cows at consignment sales and never has any trouble in selling his surplus cows. He veals his grade male calves and disposes of his male purebred for dairy purposes. He lately sold a male calf to a South Dakota breeder.

Mr. Knutson's present herd sire is Cherub's Ace of Gordondale, three years old, purchased of L. E. Gordon, Nelsonville. His dam has three A. R. records, averaging better than 250 pounds. The last of these records is 269 pounds. His sire was Cora's Cherry of Shorewood, D. T. Tenny, Crystal Bay, Minn. breeder.

KEEP PROMISES TO CHILD IF YOU WOULD HAVE HIM TRUTHFUL

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

EDITOR'S NOTE—KEEP YOUR PROMISES TO YOUR CHILD. OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON, COUNSELOR IN THIS ARTICLE—ANOTHER OF HER SERIES ON THE TEN COMMANDMENTS OF CHILD TRAINING.

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

MARY, we're going to spend the day with Aunt Edith. Isn't that fine. You're going to wear your new blue coat and hat. Aunt Edith wants to see them."

"But, mother," says little Mary, "it's raining and I'd like to wear my rubber raincoat and take the little umbrella that matches. If I go to Aunt Edith's I'll want to walk over to Grandma's by my self. You said I could next time. And if I have to be out in the rain shouldn't I have rain clothes on?"

"Oh, hush, Mary! I get so tired arguing with you. Do as I say and wear your blue coat and hat. That's partly what we're going for. And about Grandma. Why are you so possessed to walk over there by yourself? It's two blocks and sometimes might happen to you. No, you can't do that today."

What's wrong with this picture? I'll tell you. To begin with, when Mary made a wise and sensible choice, her mother snipped off a promising bud of initiative. When will parents learn how important and necessary a thing this quality of initiative is?

Mary was not being disobedient. She was exercising a child's right to analyze something for herself and make a perfectly reasonable and justifiable statement to her mother.

Children learn to phrase, "Mother knows best" or "Father knows best" usually with a mental reservation. Being sensible, reasonable, and not at all stupid little people, they know that as many times as not neither mother nor father actually do know best. In this case Mother didn't. She should have recognized, to begin with, a symptom of initiative when she saw it, even so simple a matter as a coat. And there was the element of common sense.

Unquestioning and blind obedience a parent has a right to demand and must demand in fundamental things, which the child must understand and recognize. But without any right to voice his personality he becomes a puppet.

Another thing? The mother put fear into Mary's mind by auto-suggestion. She was "afraid" to let her cross a street. She should not have said so. To caution her about being careful in crossing a street would have been different.

Third: She broke a promise. She had told Mary "next time," and now she was hedging.

Psychologists will tell you far-reaching results of misstatements or broken promises by parents to children.

Is a child to get his earliest and most startling example of untruth, equivocation and broken pledges (all examples of dishonesty) from the very parent who has told him it is a sin to lie?

Can we expect him to grow up with a hole-proof code of honor and a set of principles that won't stretch upon occasion, when from sheer imitation at first, and a sense of justification later, he has followed the example of a parent?

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

NOW that the Tynymites were clean, each one of them felt pretty keen. Said Scouty: "I enjoyed that clip that we took in the brook. It gave me quite an appetite. I wish there was some food in sight, but, shucks, as long as we're up here, there is no sense to look."

Then Clowny chimed in: "Say, I'm cold, and wet. I think we're pretty bold to ride around up in the air. We'll all be coughing soon. We'd better hang out in the sun and all get dry. That will be fun. The sun is at its hottest now because it's just at noon."

Then, soon, they all felt full of zip, for they were dry as they could be. The Pelicans knelt on flume and the wind began to blow. The birds swooped down, and then up high and flew in circles "round the sky, and once again, wee Cappy said, "I wonder where we'll go."

But, ere he had the question out, the others all heard Cappy shout, "Oh, look what we are coming to. It seems to be pure white." And then they watched it float with ease and flutter quickly on the breeze. Said Scouty: "If it comes this way, grab hold and hang on tight."

In just a moment it was near and Clowny's grab brought forth a cheer. The other Tynymites drew up close and also took a hand at the catchhold. It was, it mystified them all, because what made it float up in the air they could not understand.

Just then a wee voice said, "Hello, Hop on if you all care to go." And so the Tynymites climbed aboard the queer cloth, one by one. A pretty little girl appeared, and all the Tynymites were cheered to hear her, in a high, clear voice say, "I am the Princess Fun."

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

When Faith and Bob walked up the path again to the little house in Myrtle Street, the triumphant notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played on the piano, which Cherry had bought on the installment plan, came tumbling out to greet them. "Here comes the bride--"

"Oh, I can't face them, Bob!" Faith moaned, her cold fingers tightening on Bob's arm. "They'll tease us and slap you on the back and give us advice--"

"Rotten luck, but we've got to go through with it. All newlyweds do," Bob grinned down at her, but his eyes were full of tender understanding. "They'll be hurt if we ducked out without letting them congratulate us."

When they entered the living room, Cherry jumped up from the piano bench and came running, with her round, lovely little arms spread wide.

"Look at the darlings!" she cried, in her high, musical voice. "Blushing like naughty children caught in mischief. Did you promise to obey this his luncheon, Faith? I'll bet you did. You're just the type."

It was odd, Faith thought helplessly, as she passed from one member of the family to another, how Cherry could blight her joy, dim her radiance, with half a dozen careless words. It was Faith—the girl who had been known as "that wild Fay Allen" and who was now Junior's wife, to whom she felt most akin in those first dreadful minutes of meeting the family as a newly married woman.

"Oh, I know you'll be happy," Fay whispered, her arm about Faith, her hazel eyes brimming with sudden tears. "You're so good and sweet and Bob is such a splendid man. Don't don't be afraid," her voice dropped, even lower and her face blushed, "it isn't terrifying at all, when you're in love."

"That's right! Embarrass the poor children to death with your takings-on," Aunt Hattie scolded them all. "There's a raft of sandwiches and some hot chocolate and tea in the dining room. Come and get it! Faith'll look less like a glorified saint and more like a human being if she gets something hot in her stomach. Ain't et a bite all day, I'll bet! Come and give your Aunt Hattie a kiss, Bob. Faith, way, if you don't think her old mouth's too puckered up!" she invited suddenly.

While she was trying to eat, to please Aunt Hattie, Faith saw "Long" Lane, her recently married brother, draw Bob aside. They stood by the dining room window, talking earnestly in low tones. "Long" obviously the instigator, instructing the novice. In Junior's manner was something of the protecting brother, too, as if he were making his sister's husband-understand that she had men folks to look after her.

"Faith, listen! Aunt Hattie's got a wedding cake hid in the kitchen," Joy shrieked. "You got to cut it, Faith! It's white with pink icing letters. Listen, Faith," she tugged at her sister's sleeve for attention. "Can I sleep with a piece of it under my pillow, Faith? Do you think any boy'll want to marry me when I'm grown up?"

"Of course!" Faith laughed, kneeling and holding the child close against her heart. Again it came to her that Joy's lot was a hard one. She was so much younger than the others, so plain, so intense, so hungry for love and attention, and none of them ever seemed to have time for her.

"Let me go with you tonight," Faith, to the new house," Joy whimpered, clinging to her sister. "Aunt Hattie scolds me and Cherry picks on me all the time."

"Just three days, honey," Faith pleaded. "You'll come to the new house on Wednesday. Bob wants me all to himself for a little while. He's my husband now and I've got to obey him," she laughed shakily.

Now that she had uttered the words, had given him his title, had acknowledged the strange new relationship added, peace came to rout her fears. She stood up and her eyes, luminous with love, stilled to Bob, her husband, that she was ready to go with him.

The marriage of Miss Hazel Daelke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Daelke, 302 W. Winnebago-st., and Philip Casper, son of Mrs. Edmund Casper, N. Moorhead-st., took place at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at First English Lutheran church. The Rev. F. C. Reuter performed the ceremony. Miss Marion Steffen and William Casper were the attendants. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for about 60 relatives and friends. The couple left on a short wedding trip after which they will live in Appleton.

The marriage of Miss Anna Romanesko, of Freedom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Romanesko, and Arnold Van Asten, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Van Asten of Little Chute, took place at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at St. Nicholas church at Freedom. The Rev. Father Traeger performed the ceremony. Miss Lucia Van Asten of Rudolph was bridesmaid and Leonard Romanesko was best man. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, and a wedding dance will be held Tuesday night at Twelve Corners. Mr. and Mrs. Van Asten will make their home in Little Chute.

Miss Thelma Campshure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Campshure, 1119 N. State-st., and Joseph H. Bellin, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bellin, 528 W. Franklin-st., were married at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning at St. Mary church. The Rev. L. Binder performed the ceremony. Miss Stella Murray acted as bridesmaid and the bride's parents and the bridegroom were attended by Joseph Bellin. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate families. After a wedding trip to Chicago, the couple will be at home to friends at 617 N. Appleton-st.

The wedding march was played by Miss Birdie Farrell and hymns were sung by Miss Myrtle Farrell.

Miss Loretta Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young, and Roy Konrad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Konrad, all of the town of Deer Creek, were married at St. Mary church at Bear Creek at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. The Rev. M. Alt performed the ceremony. Attendants were Miss Gladys Young and Louis Konrad. A wedding reception and dinner was held at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Konrad will make their home on a farm near Hortonville.

Miss Stella Ehlers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ehlers of Kellen, and Robert Kolosso, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kolosso, 1114 W. Packard-st., were married at 8:30 Tuesday morning at St. Joseph church. The attendants were Miss Jeanette Ehlers, sister of the bride, and Sylvia Kolosso, brother of the bridegroom. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Kolosso left Tuesday afternoon on a rounds, and whenever the adverse King is not on the left it will take three; so it is classed as a biddable holding, but Ace-Queen-Ten-x is not unless it be accompanied by side strength.

No. 2. A bid made after an adverse suit declaration on the right requires less strength than an original bid. It does not show two quick tricks, but does show more than one.

No. 3. Should pass to show normal support for partner's Hearts. A Spade bid would deny that support, and the Spade suit is not so long that it is vitally important it be named.

No. 4. The double by West asked for a Major take-out if East had a four-card Major. North's two No Trumps was an effort to shut out a bid by East and relieves him of the necessity of answering West's double; but having five Spades with three honors, opposite a dependable doubling partner, East is too strong to be shut out as game at Spades is possible.

NEARBY
IN EXTRA INNINGS

Thimmany Team Forces Winners to Extend Themselves to Cop Game

Kaukauna — The Volleyballers and Thimmany soft ball teams battled nine innings in a Kaukauna Twilight Soft ball league game Monday evening before the former was able to gain a 16 to 15 decision over the stubborn mill men. In the seventh and eighth innings Thimmany tied the count and lacked but one run of doing it again in the ninth. It was the second consecutive win for the volleyballers as well as their second win of the season. The sportsmen have taken a new lease on life and from present appearances are going to make a real pennant race.

The sports scored two in the first inning while holding the millmen less. Two more runs came home in the second for the volleyballers while the Thimmany outfit again was blank. The run scored by the sportsmen in the third gave them a one run margin after Thimmany had its first inning. Four hits noted four runs. Errors by the opposition and three hits by Volleyballers scored four in the fourth. A five run lead the volleyballers were blanked in the fifth and sixth while the millmen were getting two in the fifth and three more in the sixth to tie the score at 9 all. In a desperate effort to break the tie the Volleyballers scored twice in the seventh but Thimmany duplicated the former's efforts. Each scored a run in the eighth.

With the game already into extra innings the Volleyballers made a supreme effort to win in the ninth. Dix, first up, was out on an easy fly. Ryan hit a two bagger. Worthman was out at first on a pop up. Webster was safe at first on an infield error. St. Mitchell was safe at first on an error committed by the pitcher. With three men on F. Robideau clouted out a two bagger and reached third on an overthrow, sending three men home. C. Robideau singled and scored F. Robideau. Engblom was out on a fly muffed by Niesing. Engblom caught close to the ground by Lazon. Niesing singled in Thimmany's half. Engerson was out at first and Niesing scored on a hit by Gerend. Fahstroom singled and the bases were loaded when Graef hits safely. Thimmany needed but one run to tie the score. Gradona was the third out on an easy fly to St. Mitchell.

H. Dix was injured when he fell early in the game. It was necessary to take him home. The lineup: Volleyballers—Ryan, Dix, Worthman, Merdes, Webster, St. Mitchell, F. Robideau, C. Robideau, Engblom, Welch, and Krahn. Thimmany—Brenzell, Nagel, Graef, Engerson, Gerend, Fahstroom, Lazon, Niesing, H. Dix and Gradona.

Doctor Found Women and Children Sick

More Often than Men

As a family doctor at Monticello, Illinois, the whole human body, not only small part of it, was Dr. Caldwell's practice. More than half his "calls" were on women, children and babies. They are the ones most often sick. But their illnesses were usually of a minor nature — colds, fevers, headaches, biliousness — and all of them required first a thorough evacuation. They were constipated.

In the course of Dr. Caldwell's 47 year's practice (he was graduated from Rush Medical College back in 1875), he found a good deal of success in such cases with a prescription of his own containing simply laxative herbs with pepsin. In 1892 he decided to use this formula in the manufacture of a medicine to be known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and in that year his prescription was first placed on the market.

The preparation immediately had as great a success in the drug stores as it previously had in Dr. Caldwell's private practice. Now, the third generation is using it. Mothers are giving it to their children who were given it by their mothers. Every second of the working day someone somewhere is going into a drug store to buy it. Millions of bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin are sold every year.

Its great success is based on merit, on repeated buying, on one satisfied user telling another. There are thousands of homes in this country that are never without a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and we have got many hundreds of letters from grateful people telling us that it helps them when everything else failed.

While women, children and elderly people are especially benefited by Dr.

Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, it is promptly effective on the most robust constitution and in the most obstinate cases. It is mild and gentle in its action and does not cause griping and strain. Containing neither opiates nor narcotics, it is safe for the tiniest baby. Children like it and take it willingly.

Every drug store sells Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Keep a bottle in your home, where many live some one is sure to need it quickly.

WEEK'S SCHEDULE
Tuesday—Civics club vs. Badger Printers.
Wednesday—Interlakes vs. Legion.
Thursday—Civics club vs. Bankers.
Friday—Post-Crescent vs. Co. D.

The Post-Crescent team of the softball league was tumbled down into second place in league standings, and the Interlakes squad is again riding the top Tuesday as the result of a game played in Jones park Monday evening. The Bankers were elevated to third by their victory.

The newspaper men lost 8 to 5 and most of the town is happy today for if there is anything that gladdens the heart of the softball fan it is to see someone take the measure of the St. Paul team.

The Bankers offered plenty of opposition with one of the best aggregations they have had. McKenzie's slants weren't hit often and when they were someone was camped under the ball to end any resemblance of an up-rising. An airtight infield kept most P-C base-runners close to the sacks and snared the infield grounders.

Or maybe the newspaper men couldn't get started because of the gallery gods who were pulling for the Bankers. Seems as though Bill Tummers, Joe Langenberg, Frank Waelder, Dr. Carlson, Bob Connelly, Bill Drexler and all kids who could go without supper had the Indian sign on the Stern and outfit. But even if they were using the rabbit's foot to get a Banker victory they had an interesting evening and went home to cold suppers and angry wives and mothers.

In the parlance of our village, contempt, a good time was had by all. Tuesday evening the Civic club will ambulate to its ancient aggregation to do battle with Phil Jacobson and his Badger Printers. This game is being played instead of the Badger-Brandt game, postponed until a later date.

Janesville—Harry Kahn Milwaukee, scored technical knockout over Joe Jawson, Milwaukee, (5). Bennie Natranga, Rockford, Ill., won from Tony Grayjack Milwaukee, (4). Young Berg, Rockford, knocked out Young Binz, Beloit, (4). Vic Walters, St. Paul, won by a shade from Bradshaw, Rockford, (8).

UNIQUE ROLE

How different is Bernie Neis—he has served with three different American League clubs in ten weeks! This ex-National Leaguer started with Washington but joined the Cleveland club early in the year only to be released a few days ago via the waiver route to the Chicago White Sox. He is being carried as a reserve outfielder by the White Sox.

NO WALKER-MILLIGAN FIGHT FOR 'ONE-EYE'

Liverpool—James Connelly, known in the United States as "one-eye" Connelly, the supreme gate-crasher, who boasted on leaving New York that he would take a whole police squad to keep him from seeing the Mickey Walker-Tommy Milligan fight here, is being detained here as a person likely to become a public charge.

One meek looking British alien's officer interrupted Connelly's gate-crashing career when he arrived here aboard the Scythia.

"Looks like my trip is a washout," said Connelly with a sickly smile this afternoon.

SWEETSER AND DAD WIN GOLF TOURNEY

New York—(AP)—Jess Sweetser and his father, George, won about every prize in sight in the annual father and son golf tournament of the metropolitan district. Taking alternate strokes at the same ball the Sweetsters covered the 18 holes of the Garden City golf club links in an 53 for the low gross score which gave them their second victory in recent years. They won the event in 1919 with an 54.

The Sweetser team scored its second triumph of the day when Jess, the former United States and British Amateur champion, whacked a ball 242 yards to win the long driving contest.

M'GRAW TOLD TERRY HE WAS GOOD; THEN MADE HIM PROVE IT

Giant Manager Was Given Razz When He Sold Kelly but Bill Proved John J. Right

BY HILLY EVANS
"You're the regular first baseman on this ball club. There isn't anybody that has a chance to get the job away from you. Now show me if you are as good as I think you are."

When Bill Terry of the New York Giants arrived at Sarasota, Fla., for spring training, that was the gist of the greeting he received from Manager John McGraw.

That speech appears to have converted Bill Terry from just a player to one of the most valuable first basemen in the National League. It gave him the needed confidence in his ability that apparently had been lacking.

For three years, Bill Terry has been playing understudy to George Kelly, one of the most versatile ball players in the majors and one of the best guardians of the initial sack in the game. Battling George Kelly for a job might be classed as picking the safest sort of competition. It so proved for Terry.

During those three years, Terry broke into the lineup only when Manager McGraw was using Kelly at second base or in the outfield or because he was out of the game, due to illness or injuries.

Terry's greatest opportunity as a regular came during the 1925 season when he broke into 133 games with the Giants. That he thrived on regular work was shown by his batting average of .319, a jump of over 80 points over the previous season, when he was merely a substitute.

Prior to the opening of the present season, McGraw caused a near sensation when he traded George Kelly for the veteran outfielder, Edd Roush. That McGraw knew well what he was doing has since been proved.

"I need outfield strength," said McGraw to me when I looked his club over at Sarasota in the spring. "I am sacrificing a great first sacker and a clever utility man for a player whom I consider a brilliant outfielder."

"If my club is to be in the race, my outfield must be strengthened by the addition of a great center fielder to steady it. I regard Roush as just the man for the job."

"While I regret the passing of Kelly as a Giant, I feel that I can part with him, since I am sure Terry has arrived and can play the bag as well and hit as satisfactorily as Kelly."

At the time a majority of the experts differed with McGraw but later events have shown that McGraw knew the

Ruth Believes Gehrig Will Be His Successor

BY HILLY EVANS
"If that baby keeps on hitting 'em like he did yesterday, he should make anywhere from 40 to 60 home runs this year."

Babe Ruth was doing the talking and Lou Gehrig was the subject of conversation. The day previous Gehrig had hit two home runs to beat the St. Louis Browns, being responsible for five of the eight runs, scored by his team.

"What is more," continued the Babe, "he's going to make it tough for me to lead the majors in home runs if he keeps up that clip."

Unquestionably Lou Gehrig is Ruth's biggest menace as the world's greatest slugger. He is bound to be Ruth's successor as the Sultan of Swat. His acquiring of the crown is simply a matter of time.

The New York players frankly tell you it wouldn't surprise them if he beat out the Babe this year.

To the Yankees, Gehrig is called "Power-House." Opposing pitchers refer to him as one large headache. Most of the New York club is classed in that category.

While both Ruth and Gehrig are sluggers extraordinary, there is a decided difference as to their stance as well as their style of batting.

Gehrig really gets just as much distance to his drives as Ruth, but a home run by the Babe travels a greater distance, as a rule, than a Gehrig clout for the circuit.

Ruth hits under the ball more than Gehrig, as a result, there is more altitude to his home runs than those of his rival. Ruth gets tremendous height as well as distance to his clouts.

In a recent game at the Yankee stadium I saw Ruth hit a home run into the right center field bleachers. It was a towering fly ball that seemed like a speck as it reached its highest point. There was always a doubt as to whether it would clear the barrier.

Gehrig followed Ruth by hitting the first ball pitched to almost the same spot. The moment he hit the ball it looked like a home run and for that reason failed to pack quite the thrill of Ruth's wallop.

Ruth's drives attain such a height that opposing outfielders insist they should have straw under their caps as protection. I have seen the greatest outfielders in the game fail to get their hands on some of Ruth's high flies, the ball dropping safely to the ground, untouched.

There is always a greater thrill when the element of doubt enters into the situation. As Ruth hits one of his towering fly balls, the fans immediately begin to wonder whether or not the ball will carry into home-run territory. Ruth's home runs for that reason take longer.

While Gehrig hits them high, far and handsome as does Ruth, still most of his home runs are decidedly clean cut. As they leave the bat, you say, "That one is over the garden wall."

Gehrig for a time profited by following Ruth in the batting order, since getting rid of Ruth, even through the medium of a base on balls, had a tendency to cause the pitcher to relax, a break for Gehrig.

That condition no longer exists. The pitcher finds himself just as harassed with Gehrig up as with Ruth. It's like going from the frying pan into the fire, when a pitcher gambles with Gehrig rather than Babe.

For a time, a change of pace bothered Gehrig. Much preferring speed, he found his stance and style not suited to a half-speed ball. He has greatly corrected this fault. While he still hits the fast ones best, he is almost as dangerous swinging at a curve or change of pace.

Gehrig, only a youngster, should be the big noise as a batter for 10 years more in the majors. He takes perfect care of himself, even going so far as to follow a strict diet during the summer to keep down his weight.

A partly waistline affects the swing and cuts down the possibilities for making home runs and I don't intend to be so handicapped," says Gehrig.

M'KENNEY BEATEN BY WESGO ON 20TH HOLE

P. C. Wesco went into the finals for the president's cup at Butte des Mortis golf course Monday afternoon winning from Charles McKenney on the twentieth green. Going onto the sixteenth tee, McKenney was three down. He picked up one hole by winning the sixteenth, another on the seventeenth hole and evened it up on the eighteenth with a spectacular comeback.

Both contestants were on the green in three on the first hole of the play off. McKenney sunk a 20 foot putt and Wesco halved the hole by sinking an 8-foot putt. Disaster greeted McKenney on the twentieth hole, for his third shot went to the right of the green while Wesco placed his ball on the green and Wesco won, 1 up.

Nell Spoor and Ralph McGowan were scheduled to take off Tuesday at the other semi-finals match.

'KEEPSIE THINKS ANNUAL REGATTA WILL BE TOSS-UP

Navy Varsity Is Favorite to Win Big Race; Wisconsin Frosh Among Yearlings

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—A rowing season dominated by upsets and form reversals will come to a climax Wednesday in the intercollegiate championship regatta with prospects pointing Tuesday to the keeneast battle in years for the chief prize in the varsity four mile race down the Hudson. Coaches of the seven varsity contenders are unanimous in regarding this year's race as the most "open" in many seasons.

Notwithstanding the views of the men guiding the destinies of the 19 crews entered in the three title races—freshman junior varsity and varsity—the Naval academy has been made a pronounced favorite to win the varsity race, which California, instead of the champion Washington eight, picked as the far west chief threat, and Cornell and Columbia as the main contenders among the four members of the intercollegiate rowing association.

Close to 100,000 spectators will witness the regatta spectacle tomorrow according to advance indications. The first event on the program scheduled at 4 P. M. eastern daylight time will bring together a record field of seven freshman crews in a two mile battle in which the unbeaten naval academy plebes will be strong favorites. Wisconsin's only entry in this race along with California, Cornell, Syracuse Columbia and Pennsylvania.

The Junior varsity contest of three miles, scheduled at five P. M., will find Washington defending another title against Cornell, California, Pennsylvania and Columbia. The varsity pull is fixed for 6 P. M.

MILLION WON'T MAKE TILDEN A "PRO"—YET

Big Bill Says "No" to Overtures of Promoters; Helen Not Interested

Wimbledon, Eng.—Awakened after midnight by an agent of a world known promoter inquiring whether he would consider an offer to become a professional tennis star Bill Tilden declared that he would not—"not for a million dollars—just now."

The figures mentioned in the offer to Tilden are understood to have been much below those which have been talked of in the newspapers as flaunted before the faces of the amateur tennis players competing in the Wimbledon tournament. The shadows of professionalism which have been hovering above Wimbledon's simon-pure amateur skirts the past week, have not rattled the cool demeanor of Miss Helen Wills, or the other California girl, Miss Elizabeth Ryan. Miss Wills even refuses to discuss the reported propositions of promoters, and it is looked upon here as a certainty that the offer of $40,000 for a two year's contract offered to her is as good as refused flatly.

Spreading like wildfire through the stands the reports of a professional offensive created a rather tense atmosphere, for Wimbledon is virtually the birthplace of amateur tennis.

Mrs. Kitty McKane Godfree the English champion, and Miss Betty Nuthall, the sensational school girl player, also have been offered sums of no small consequence to turn professional. Mrs. Godfree refused but it is stated Miss Nuthall is considering.

VALLEY SPORTS HAD FOUR GAMES SUNDAY

The Valley Sporting Goods Co. softball team won their 24th, 25th, and 26th games Sunday and then dropped their fourth defeat. They beat Hopkins Independents of Kimberly, who had challenged them through the columns of the Post-Crescent by a score of 7 to 5. This game was marred by poor officiating. Batteries for Kimberly were, Courchane and Williams; for the Valley Sports, Duffner and Engle.

The Sports also beat the Menasha Prunes in a double header by scores of 9 to 6 and 7 to 6. Although outlived eleven to eight the Sports won the first game by bunting hits in the fourth and sixth innings.

In the second game the sports again emerged victorious by a score of 7 to 6. The sports were again outlived but managed to eke out a victory. The Menasha Prunes missed the Twirling of Sherman who was away on a fishing trip. Calder was missed at third but Omar Abely filled Godhardt's shoes behind the pan. Feavel lead his team at the plate hitting safely three times out of four and Feidham followed on his heels with two out of three attempts. Weyenber, Landis, and Walboun each got two out of four for the Prunes.

In the afternoon the sports dropped their fourth defeat to the O. K. Taxis by a score of 6 to 5. The Taxis seem to have the Indian sign on the sports for in 31 games played by the sports only four have been lost and one tied. Three of the losses have been to the Taxis. The other was to the Prunes in a doubleheader two weeks ago in Menasha. They defeated the Whippets (now disbanded) in three games and the Whippets split a two game series with the Taxis but the sports cannot defeat the Taxis. Duffner and Engle worked for the sports while Lutz was on the hill for the Taxis and J. Bauers behind the plate.

The sports now have games lined up with the Golden Rule team of

BERLENBACH VICTOR IN COMEBACK BOUT

New York—Having scored a sensational one round knockout over Charles Rammel, Austrian heavyweight, Paul Berlenbach today was out to prove to the pugilistic world that some of his best fighting days are still ahead.

It took the dynamite fists of the former light heavyweight champion just two minutes and 33 seconds of fighting in the first battle of his comeback campaign Monday night to batter his opponent so badly the referee stopped the bout and awarded Berlenbach a kayo.

The fight was scheduled for 10 rounds.

MAYBE MACK WISHES HE COULD RECALL JOE

Philadelphia, Pa.—Fate, especially that part related to baseball, plays some queer pranks. A broken knee cap was too tough a handicap for Joe Hauser to stay in the majors. So Connie Mack shooed him away.

Joe Hauser today leads the American Association stolen bases, broken knee cap notwithstanding, and is also one of the leading hitters of that circuit.

On the other hand, Connie Mack struggled along with Poole and Brannan as his firstsackers and finally started Jimmy Fox, a catcher, on the bag.

Menasha. A return game with Hopkins Independents at Kimberly. An Oshkosh team and Shapiro's Soxsters who still aim to defeat the sports. Manager Feavel is also communicating with several Green Bay teams in hopes of arranging games to be played here and at the Bay.

'AIN'T NO JUSTICE' WAILS RED CHAPMAN

New York—They say lightning never strikes the same spot twice, but you couldn't prove it by "Red" Chapman in a million and two years.

For the second time in the past few months, Chapman has had an opponent walk out on him just on the eve of a bout that might have given Chapman the official or unofficial title of featherweight champion.

Some several months ago, Chapman was all set to take the feather title away from one "Kid" Kaplan. But Mr. Kaplan just walked on out and vacated the throne.

So Mr. Chapman waited. Finally he was matched to fight Honey-Boy Finnegan for the unofficial title. Was he happy? Too happy to have it last as Mr. Finnegan pulled one of those here-yesterday-but-gone-today stunts on him.

He resigned right out of the feather class like Kaplan did, and left Mr. Chapman looking for somebody to fight.

It's a tough racket, wails Mr. Chapman.

FREEDOM RALLIES TO WHIP SHIOCTON, 8-5

Freedom defeated Shiocton Sunday afternoon in a Wolf River Valley league game, 8 to 5. Shiocton took a lead early in the game when four errors gave them two runs. Freedom settled down, however, and behind Torman's straight twirling carried the game through to victory.

Verbrick of the Appleton Aces and Courtney and Webb, also of Appleton, have been signed by the Freedom management. Batteries for Freedom were Torman and Strutz; for Shiocton, Krahn and Krahn.

Philadelphia—Benny Bass, Philadelphia defeated Joe Gillick, New York (10.)

SCHLAFERS SUCCEED IN BEATING APPLETON ACES

Schlafers Hardware Co. baseball team hopped over to Menasha Sunday morning where they took a 7 to 1 trimming from the Menasha Rounders team. E. P. Laubs pitched for the losers, F. Beach for the winners. In the afternoon the Schlafers won a hard game from the Appleton Aces, 7-5. Murphy pitched a great game for the winners letting the Aces down with 8 hits. His teammates earned 12 off Gebke, Ace hurler. The victory over the Aces was the first in two years for the Schlafers outfit.

KAHN KAYOES JAWSON IN JANESVILLE FIGHT

CAL DEDICATES MONUMENT TO WAR VETERANS

Promote Human Welfare Along With Prosperity, He Urges Americans

Hammond, Ind.—(AP)—Greater attention to human welfare in America so that it will equal the nation's prosperity was urged here Tuesday by President Coolidge in dedicating the new memorial park to the World War veterans of the Calumet region.

The park which is surrounded by the cities of Hammond, Whiting and East Chicago, was dedicated by Mr. Coolidge to represent "practical idealism" and America, he added, "amid all her prosperity has not forgotten her ideals."

But "too many of us," the president said, neglect to vote: too many "are unprovided with advantages of education" and "the number lacking in religious devotion is altogether too large."

"While we have reached the highest point in material prosperity ever achieved, there is considerable class of unskilled workers who have not come into full participation in the wealth of the nation," Mr. Coolidge continued. "Although our government is sound and our courts are excellent, too many of us disregard the obligations of citizenship by neglecting to vote and uneducated citizens are altogether too prevalent. Our delinquencies are sufficient to require us to put forth all our efforts to work toward elimination."

HAVE NATURAL HANDICAPS

"But we should not be discouraged because we are surrounded by human limitations and handicapped by human weakness. We are also possessors of human strength. Intelligence, courage, fidelity, character—these, also, are our heritage and our mark of the divine image."

Once more Mr. Coolidge took note of the flight of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh from New York to Paris, declaring "when one of your western young men all it is the progress from America to Europe our country hails him with a popular acclaim so spontaneous, so genuine, as to disclose the true values of our national character."

The spirit and ideals which developed the Calumet region from a wilderness in half a century has been instrumental in the nation's advancement, the president continued. "The ideals which continue to dominate the course of humanity America entered the world war, he said, and helped to perpetuate them through its victorious conclusion."

"When America has drawn the sword it has always been the people who have won," he declared.

CORRECT SYSTEM IN U. S.

"While a very larger emphasis is entitled to be placed on our imperfections, yet all it is the progress from America to Europe our country hails him with a popular acclaim so spontaneous, so genuine, as to disclose the true values of our national character."

The spirit and ideals which developed the Calumet region from a wilderness in half a century has been instrumental in the nation's advancement, the president continued. "The ideals which continue to dominate the course of humanity America entered the world war, he said, and helped to perpetuate them through its victorious conclusion."

"The estimation which we, as a nation, set upon the patriotic efforts of those who have served us in time of war is revealed not only in the untiring devotion which we have lavished upon them and their dependents, but also in the highest possible honors which have constantly been conferred upon them by their fellow citizens. As a people, we stand in respectful reverence before the things that are unseen. It is but a passing glance that we bestow upon wealth and place, compared with that which we pour out upon courage, patriotism, holiness and character. We dedicate no monuments to merely financial and economic success, while our country is filled with memorials to those who have done some service for their fellow men."

"It has been said that the war was fought to make a world fit for the abode of heroes. I want to see our own country the first to make that expectation a reality. But if it is to come true, it can only be through the industry, the devotion and the character of the people themselves."

SELLS TO CONSUMER AT COST PRICES IN UNIQUE NEW STORE

Texas Man Opens "God's Mercy Store" and Sells on Customer's Own Offers

Waller, Tex.—Acting on the Biblical exhortation, "Sell all thou hast and follow me," A. D. Purvis, a cotton farmer, has succeeded in one of the most remarkable merchandizing ventures ever recorded in America.

In June, 1915 Purvis put his idea. He came to Waller and opened a store. He called it "God's Mercy Store."

People passed and wondered. A few of the braver souls went inside. There they learned that every article of merchandise was marked with figures that represented the cost of the article. Purvis told them they either could buy at cost price, or add whatever they cared, as profit for the store. "I left it all to him," he says. "They began handling me a little change—and that I thanked them for. Then everyone who knew me well decided that 10 per cent on top of the cost was about right. Many began paying that."

"Some could figure it, and some asked me to figure the percentage for them. The store wasn't for profit, and I told them all so, but we got along, and the business grew."

"All we figure," Purvis added, "is the cost of the goods, the freight and the clerk hire."

"God's Mercy Store" has prospered. The store that started with $1,000 worth of merchandise, now has stock worth $15,000. Last year the sales were around $100,000.

The owner of "God's Mercy Store" is not a "religious man," he says. Neither he nor any of his family belongs to any of the churches here. Says Purvis:

"My only religion is the truth, the Bible and to do good unto my fellow man and to follow the promptings of the inner spirit."

FORM ORGANIZATION OF CIVIC COUNCIL

H. L. Plummer Elected President at Meeting Monday; to Direct Play

The Civic Council which is sponsoring the directed playground work became a permanent organization Monday evening following a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. The constitution and by-laws which had been drawn up by a special committee were read and approved. H. L. Plummer was elected president of the organization. F. F. Wheeler vice president, R. M. Eickmeyer, secretary and H. B. Sylvester, treasurer.

At a previous meeting it had been decided to ask the several civic organizations to appoint members to the council. The Chamber of Commerce appointed Harry Sylvester and W. E. Smith, the Rotary club L. J. Marshall and H. H. Helble, while the Legion appointed C. O. Baetz and A. H. Bunks. All were present at the meeting Monday night. The Parent-Teacher association will also be asked to appoint members to the council.

A committee comprised of Mrs. Mable Shannon, chairman, L. J. Marshall and Adolph Guyer was appointed to report in the advisability of making the playground work a permanent institution. The treasurer's report showed $700 in the council treasury with $300 more available if necessary. Salaries and equipment costs for the playground work come out of the council treasury.

H. B. Sylvester, Henry Otto and Mrs. L. J. Marshall were appointed as a committee to increase the playground budget another $200. Mr. Sylvester was named chairman of the committee.

H. H. Helble reported that Joseph Shields, director of the playground work, was in the hospital. "His broken leg will be healed, resume his work late in the week."

Designation of a certain day each week as visitors' day was discussed. It was estimated that over 5,000 children had attended the playgrounds since their institution two weeks ago.

ARMY PLANE HOPS OFF TO HONOLULU

away down the runway rising such a great cloud of dust that the spectators could not see the machine.

Seconds that seemed minutes elapsed before the drab colored wings of the army plane were seen to emerge from the cloud of dust.

"They're off! they're in the air," shouted the crowd and another cheer rose from civilians and army men. Overhead, circling and swinging about field, were several army service planes. As soon as the Fokker cleared the ground these escort machines straightened out on a westerly course and fell in formation behind the Fokker as she passed over the San Francisco Bay, heading toward the Golden Gate. The fleet of escort planes left the Fokker as she swung out over the sea at an altitude estimated at 2,000 feet.

The secondary question was "when will Smith leave?" All night long mechanics worked on the Smith plane to correct final details. Smith and his navigator, Charles H. Carter of Los Angeles, arrived at the camp shortly before the army plane took off. They said they had enjoyed four hours sleep during the night and were ready to leave as soon as their plane was pronounced complete in all details. An unexpected delay was encountered when Smith found he needed a new altimeter. Army air service officials offered Smith the use of one of their altimeters.

Lieutenant Maitlands parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Maitland of Burlingame, Calif., and formerly of Milwaukee, were on the field to witness the take off. To them went the final hand wave from the pilot as the plane started rolling along the runway. Neither the father nor the mother would discuss their son's venture after the plane departed.

Smith displayed signs of nervousness when it was announced the altimeter installed in his plane would not function correctly. He was perturbed by the setback, but he believes he can overcome the army plane even though the latter had a three hour start of him.

This belief was based on the established speed of the two planes. The army plane was expected to travel about 90 miles an hour for the first 2,000 miles and then increase in proportion to the decreasing weight of gasoline.

Smith expected to take the air at about 90 miles an hour, and increase until he attained 125 miles per hour at the finish.

BYRD GIVES GOOD WISHES

Roosevelt Field, New York—(AP)—Commander Richard E. Byrd, held up here by bad weather on his own transoceanic flight, Tuesday took occasion to express his best wishes to other transoceanic fliers, apparently not hampered by the elements. Speaking of Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and Albert E. Hegenberger and of Ernest Smith, civilian flier, Commander Byrd commented on their abilities as fliers and said he had no doubt they would make the Hawaiian islands.

"This project," he said, "is undoubtedly one of the most difficult feats in transoceanic flying yet attempted. This Honolulu flight is not so simple. The objective must be struck directly on the mark."

LIONS TELL WHY THEY CAME TO APPLETON

Earl Baker, David Smith, Mark Catlin and W. L. Smith gave five-minute talks on why they came to Appleton at the meeting of the Lions club Monday noon at the Conway hotel.

The nearness to fishing and hunting grounds brought Mr. Catlin and Mr. Baker here, they said. David Smith had been employed at the Banta Printing and Publishing Co., at Menasha and when he decided to go into business for himself he came to Appleton. W. L. Smith was born and lived during his boyhood on the farm west of Leppa Corners and he wished to come back where he knew the people, he said.

GENERAL TREND OF MARKET IS UPWARD

Minor Specialties Show Decline When Call Loan Rate Is Raised to 5 Per Cent

New York—(AP)—Stock prices displayed a strong tone at the opening of Tuesday's market. The unexpected large decrease in brokers' loans reported by the federal reserve bank helped to restore confidence which had been shaken by the weakness of oil companies and motors.

Pool operators, who temporarily abandoned their favorites Monday, started to bid up stocks in aggressive fashion, being aided by the covering operations of hedge funds who sold stocks freely Monday.

Foreign exchanges opened irregular with demand sterling closing around 25 1/2 cents.

Prices of some of the minor specialties began to slide when the reserve rate for call loans was raised from 4 to 5 per cent. The usual leadership of the market was taken by early high prices, apart from Baldwin which fell back 2 1/2, it being generally expected that the cost of standing loans would be higher in consequence of the extraordinary credit requirements at this time.

The closing was irregular total sales approximated 1,400,000 shares.

CONSIDER BILL TO SEND BEAVER DAM'S BAND TO CONVENTION

Lower House Considers Measure Designating State Band for Paris Trip

Madison—(AP)—Starting Tuesday night the lower house of Wisconsin's legislature is expected to increase its business during the week looking toward a wind up of the session.

Among the bills up for consideration in the assembly is the committee on Judiciary bill by which the Beaver Dam Legion band would be called the official state band and sent to the Paris Legion convention as such. The bill starts with a proposal that the state university annually conduct a contest among bands of the state, the winner to be named Wisconsin's official band. The measure, with an amendment, has been recommended for passage by the committee on finance.

Indefinite postponement has been recommended by the committee on judiciary for the bill by Assemblyman Dieringer calling for the drawing of jurors in Fond du Lac county by a blindfolded child instead of by a jury committee.

Mr. Hubbard's bill allowing maintenance of model teaching departments in county normal schools is upon the calendar for passage along with the bill by Senator H. H. Smith setting up a narcotic law for the state similar to the federal law. The bill sets up regulations for the handling and sale of narcotics and affixes penalties for violations, giving the state the power to prosecute instead of taking all such actions into federal courts.

Senator Morris' bill lowering the age at which children may be employed as coolies during vacation periods from 14 to 12 years is before the assembly Wednesday for possible passage over the veto of the governor. The upper house passed the bill after Governor Zimmerman had disapproved of it by a 20 to 10 vote.

The Spott "Marquette Law School bill" requiring that all applicants for admission to the state bar take the bar examination and eliminating the diploma certification privilege enjoyed by University of Wisconsin law graduates is up for possible reconsideration. The assembly has already killed the bill.

Motions for reconsideration, occupy a large portion of the Wednesday calendar. There are to be votes on reconsideration of:

The Reis bill, indefinitely postponed, for taxation of incomes of railroads and public service corporations on the same basis as business corporations, reducing the income tax upon individuals and corporations by repeal of the teachers' retirement surtax.

Senator Goodland's bill increasing the indemnities for cattle killed after reacting to the roset for bovine tuberculosis. The assembly voted non-concurrence with the senate; the motion now being upon reconsideration of the non-concurrence.

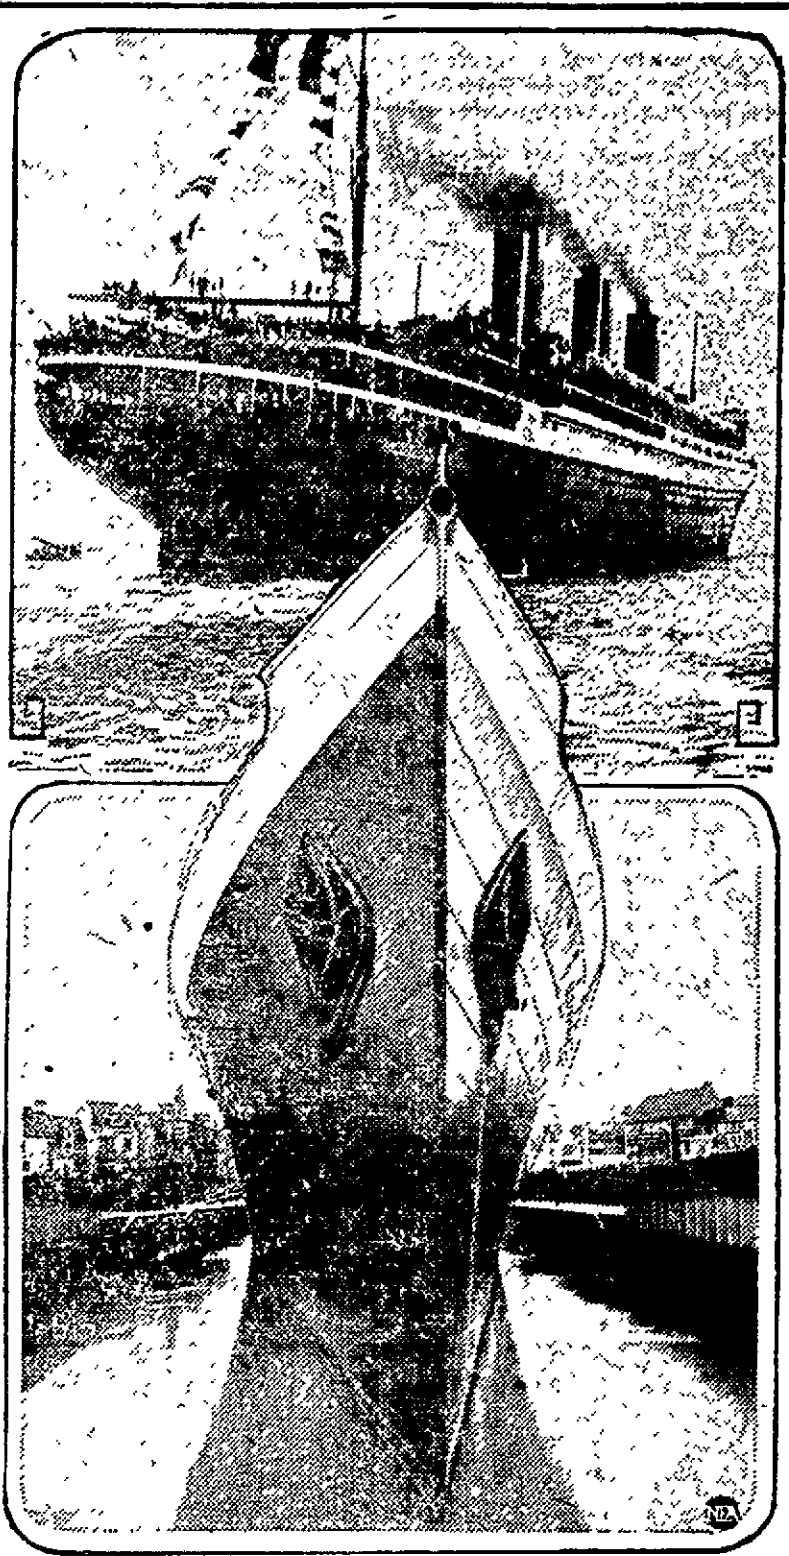

A joint resolution by Assemblyman Reis, providing for an interim committee to investigate the feasibility of a retirement system for state employees, is upon the Wednesday schedule.

Indefinite postponement has been recommended by the highways committee for the Eastman bill putting the registration of motor vehicles in the state in the hands of county clerks.

Senator Casperson's bill for a citizens' tax research board is upon the mid-week calendar for engrossment.

Several other measures of varying importance make up the remainder of the schedule.

Newest of the ocean greyhounds is the "Ile de France," pictured strikingly here. She is the 4,000-ton flagship of the French Line's passenger fleet and will play between New York and Plymouth-Havre. Dazzling splendor marks all the great ship's appointments. The French Line announced the "Ile de France" as a new "ambassador of friendliness." Ambassador Myron T. Herrick was a guest to New York on the liner's maiden trip.

Senator Morris' bill lowering the age at which children may be employed as coolies during vacation periods from 14 to 12 years is before the assembly Wednesday for possible passage over the veto of the governor. The upper house passed the bill after Governor Zimmerman had disapproved of it by a 20 to 10 vote.

WANT HATCHERY ON INDIAN TERRITORY

Local Game Association Requests Help from Congressman Schneider

A plea for a fish hatchery on the Menominee Indian reservation has been made by members of Outagamie County Fish and Game Protective association through its president F. W. A. Hammond to Congressman George J. Schneider. Mr. Hammond asks Congressman Schneider for an interview to discuss the possibility of a hatchery. Other members of the association committee are W. R. Wheaton and Rich. Meyer.

In his request for the interview Mr. Hammond pointed out that for several years the association has been trying to get enough fish from state and federal hatcheries to stock waters on the reservation. Their efforts were not looked on with favor and it was not until this year that they received a carload of fish. Mr. Hammond said this carload was received only through strenuous efforts of several influential members of the association. It is probable Congressman Schneider will meet the committee to discuss the matter.

The congressman has been flooded with applications from sport lovers in various parts of his district for fish to plant in waters in their vicinities. Application blanks are supplied by the congressman and applicants can apply for fish from federal or state fish hatcheries. Congressman Schneider indorses the applications and sends them to the Bureau of Fisheries, Washington D. C.

Applicants can request any kind of game fish in amount large enough to stock the waters in their district. They must, however, list the waters to be stocked and the kind of fish desired.

Fish are supplied either from the hatcheries or from the bottoms of the Mississippi river.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Somewhat unsettled tonight and Wednesday; probably scattered thunder showers; cooler Wednesday, and in northwest portion tonight.

WEATHER CONDITIONS
High pressure, with fair weather, is reported from the eastern states. A trough of low pressure extends from northern Minnesota to Colorado this morning, with rising temperature over the central valleys and lake region and with local showers over the northern plains. This "low" is expected to cause increasing winds in this section today, followed by scattered thundershowers as the trough of the "low" passes here. Temperatures should drop somewhat on Wednesday as the pressure begins to rise and the winds shift to northward or north-westward.

UNITED STATES TIRES ARE GOOD TIRES

Putting plenty of the right kind of rubber in the right place is a most important element in the building of United States Tires. This Web Cord machine soaks all the Cotton Cord for Royal Cord Balloons with pure rubber latex. Latex is the right kind of rubber to impregnate the Cotton Cord.

If you were building a tire for yourself, you would not skimp on the rubber. Neither do we. This Company owns enormous rubber plantations including the largest producing plantation in the world. On these plantations are 10,000,000 rubber trees—pedigreed stock.

We have invented Sprayed Rubber—the outstanding process for producing rubber. Sprayed Rubber is the strongest and most uniform rubber known. It is made without the use of smoke or acids.

We have invented Web Cord, the most modern way of combining rubber and cords.

The policy of "Plenty of Rubber" plus the ability to get the rubber and the skill to put the right kind of rubber in the right place, shows itself in the quality of Royal Cord Balloons on the wheels of your car.

BYRD FLIGHT WILL BE IN INTEREST OF AIR SCIENCE DATA

Navy Flyer to Chart Skyways for Records to Be Used by Government

BY GENE COHN
New York—This New York-to-Paris non-stop flight is now reaching the statistical, the scientific stage. Hazard heroes have had their fling. They have added much to romance and legend, but little to exact science. That it can be done, they have demonstrated, but they have provided no charts, no figures and no data for the necessary conclusions of those who calculate in terms of the future.

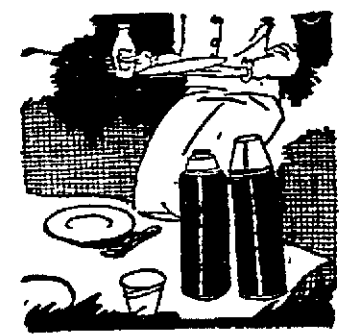

And that's where Commander Richard E. Byrd comes in. His role is that of an "airplane Sherlock," who must apply acute observation, analysis and deduction to his task. That the skyway lying between America and France must be charted, its air currents, landmarks and weather studied, as the early mariners charted the sea for reefs and islands and other dangers to future navigators.

Thereafter, with everything neatly noted on his maps, there can begin to approximate the practicability of air lines across the Atlantic. A Lindbergh's exploit goes into the records of glamorous adventure; a Byrd's exploit goes into the records of standardized statistics. He will avoid the more dangerous routes; he will perceive the many miles to the flying distance of Lindbergh and Chamberlain, following closer to the steamer lanes; he will make his conditions as nearly ideal as possible. Such is the way of established traffic!

That, for many years, has been the story of Commander Byrd. He has dedicated himself to mingling the romance of pioneering with the practical scientific. Though he stands as one of the nation's finest explorers, he has let scientific purpose strip him of his considerable glamour. He may not fire the public imagination as a Lindbergh, nor hold it captive long, but he has already achieved the immortality of the historians.

His flight across the pole attended to that. Before then, he was setting down data for the sea ships that plough the icy lanes of the Arctic. And his records will not end in Paris. If he decides not to fly a return trip, you can put it down in your notebook that he will be in the vanguard of those who circle the globe. If not this time, then some other.

Science has a way of taking its

RUBBISH PILE FIRE CALLS FIRE FIGHTERS

The fire department responded to a call in the rear of the Auto Maintenance company, 319 W. Washington-st. Monday afternoon and extinguished a small blaze that started in an accumulation of waste matter. There was no damage and the fire was put out by throwing ashes over the blaze.

time and in all things Commander Byrd is carefully methodical. He came out of Virginia, where his brother is the governor. In appearance and actions he is typical of the high-bred "southern gentleman." He was on the field to bid Lindbergh God-speed and he dated his take-off after the Lindbergh welcome.

That's Richard Byrd, all over! Sincere, considerate, enthusiastic over the feats of others, first to recognize the other fellow's victory—a true sportsman!

Upon his report will rest largely the future of passenger flying across the Atlantic. The men who navigate the sky in years to come will steer by his stars!

WAR VETERAN IS AIDED BY SCHNEIDER

Refused Assistance by Four

lowed Claim

Through the efforts of Congressman George J. Schneider an Appleton World War veteran has received aid from the federal government after having been refused help by four different aid boards. The veteran is Clark Goodland, 620 N. Morrison-st., who now is in the United States veterans hospital at Whipple, Ariz. Mr. Goodland made application for aid more than a year ago, claiming his health had been impaired in service. ## REPORT MANY BOYS ARE SEEKING CADDY PERMITS

Quite a number of applications have been made during the last week at Appleton Vocational school by boys between 12 and 14 years of age for permits to caddy. Their parents probably are under the impression that the bill to allow boys of that age to caddy, had been passed. It is pointed out, however, that the bill was adopted over Governor Zimmerman's veto only in the senate and has not yet been acted on by the assembly. Boys under 14 years of age are not permitted to caddy and cannot be given permits.

Permits are still being given out at the rate of from 10 to 15 a day at the vocational school. Most of them are for boys who wish to caddy.

of the board of appeals at Washington, D. C., and pointed out an error that had been made by the four lower boards. Immediately Mr. Goodland was admitted to the veteran's hospital and has received back pay and is now receiving aid each month.
